PREFACE

The compilation of this Howe Family Genealogy is due to the researches of Judge Daniel Wait Howe of Indianapolis, Indiana. Begun many years ago, the greater part of the work was done by him and under his supervision. It proved to be a stupendous task and involved much labor and expense. Originating in a desire to make a short record for his children, the work gradually expanded, taking in all known descendants of John How of Sudbury and Marlborough and later welcoming with equal care and research the other lines; and, in fact, all material relating to the name of Howe.

"On August 1, 1871, a meeting of the Howes in this country was held at Harmony Grove, Framingham, Mass. Every one bearing the name of Howe was invited to be present and to bring any ancient records or relics pertaining to the family, which they might possess. A very large attendance was the result of this invitation and it was at this meeting that the project was started of having a genealogy of the Howe Family published, and an effort was made to collect the material necessary for that purpose, but after about a year the work ceased, principally for the lack of funds."

The above paragraph is quoted from an early preface to this work written by Judge Howe and probably represents his idea of the first movement toward a Howe genealogy. A large amount of genelogical material was obtained as a result of the Howe Family Gathering and was preserved by Willard Howe of South Framingham, Mass.

Mr. Willard Howe later placed these records at the service of Judge Howe, who declared them to be "really the beginning and foundation" of his work. From these statements of Judge Howe, it seems likely that the "Family Gathering" afforded the first impulse to produce a family genealogy.

Credit in abundant measure, however, must be given to Judge Howe, for his persistent pursuit of the undertaking through a period, probably of over forty years, keeping all the while, a well arranged and constantly growing, manuscript.

"In England the names How, Howe and Howes seem originally to have been synonymous. In Lower's 'Patronymica Britannica' or 'Dictionary of the Family Names of the United Kingdom,' giving the origin and definition of family names, is the following: 'How, Howe, Howes. In the South a small round hill; in the North, a hollow place or plain. The mediaeval form is At How, generally synonymous with hill. A-Sax Hou, a mountain,' page 164."

There is no evidence that those bearing the name Howes in the United States are related to those who have used the other spellings. They are mostly descendants of Thomas Howes of Yarmouth, Mass., and a genealogy of them was published in 1892. They are not included in this work. In the United States the spelling How was generally superseded by Howe about the time of the Revolution, although some descendants of James How still retain the old spelling.

"There is abundant evidence that those bearing the names of Howe, How, Hoo and Hooe were numerous in England from an early period. Some of them were eminent in the history of England. The Rev. John Howe, Cromwell's chaplain, was one of the most noted ministers of his time, and was the author of several well known books. Three Howes, brothers, were prominent, not only in the history of England, but in the history of America. One of them, General George Augustus Howe, was killed at Ticonderoga in 1758. The General Court of Massachusetts made an appropriation for a monument to him, erected in Westminster Abbey. Another, General William Howe, commanded the British forces at the battle of Bunker Hill and in other memorable battles of the Revolution. Another, Admiral Richard Howe achieved high renown as a naval officer in the Revolutionary war and in other wars carried on by England. Biographical sketches of various other Howes are given in the Dictionary of National Biography (Edited by Sidney Lee.)"

"The attempt to connect early Puritan emigrants with the landed gentry and nobility of England, is often made, and usually with the help of professional genealogists in England. The latter, for a sufficient consideration are wont to bring forth results pleasing to their employers. The fact is that most of the early Puritan emigrants were not land owners in England nor connected with the nobility there. Only a few of those named in this genealogy are included in the last edition of Browning's 'Americans of Royal Descent.'"

The following statements regarding Coats of Arms were written by Judge Daniel Wait Howe in a preliminary preface to this work:

"I have investigated as well as I could, the origin and history of the various copies of coats of arms in the possession of some of the Howes in this country, in order to ascertain what, if any, clue they might furnish in determining their ancestry and their relation to each other.

"The frontispiece of Nason's Howe Family Gathering contains a colored engraving purporting to be 'a fac-simile of the original coat of arms, said to have been brought from England by John Howe about 1630, and adorned the walls of the 'Wayside Inn' or Howe Tavern in Sudbury for over 150 years.' See also 4 N. E. H. & G. Reg. 63. It is said to be a copy of the arms of Lord Charles Howe, Earl of Lancaster, and Baron How of Wormleighton. The same frontispiece also contains a colored engraving of the coat of arms of Lord Chadwick (Henry Frederick Howe). On the last cover of Nason's pamphlet is an engraving of the coat of arms of Earl Richard Howe.

"The painting which hung in the old Red Horse or Howe Tavern in Sudbury, Mass., is the one described by Longfellow in the poem entitled 'The Wayside Inn.' The original painting is now in the posssession of Mr. George Hubbard Howe of Wakefield, Mass., a lineal descendant of John of Sudbury and Marlborough.

"In the Library of the American Antiquarian Society at Worcester, Mass., is a water color 10x14, a copy apparently, of the one which hung in the Wayside Inn. Mr. George D. Howe of North Hadley, Mass., has furnished me with what information I have as to this painting.

"On the back of it is written 'Will of Jerusha Howe of Sudbury, Feb. 25, 1842,' and then follows this extract:

"To the Antiquarian Sociey of Worcester the other coat of arms of my family name, which I copied from the original held by my father, and I direct my executor to furnish it with a frame as near like the original as possible.

(Signed) Stephen Morse of Marlborough, Executor."

"There is also," writes Mr. George D. Howe, "written on the back of same, in fine hand and all crossed off by lines drawn across the writing the following: 'By Jerusha Howe, Sudbury, Massachusetts A. D. 1830. Copied from the original which was brought from England to America in the year 1684 by David How, son of John Howe of Hodinhull,' and another line too obliterated to be copied." The Jerusha above mentioned was a great granddaughter of David Howe, one of the proprietors of the Red Horse or Howe Tavern. Whoever wrote what was written on the back of this painting was in error in stating that David was the son of John. He was the son of Samuel, son of John of Sudbury and Marlborough. It may be that the discovery of this error was the reason why the writing was erased.

"Mrs. Helen D. Bradley of New Haven, Ct., a lineal descendant of James Howe of Roxbury and Ipswich, has in her possession a painting of another coat of arms." An inscription on the back of the frame, contains the following: "1625 to John Howe of Emble in Somerset, Gentleman, Boston 12 Sept. 1797 Cop."

"Dr. Herbert M. Howe of Philadelphia, a descendant of James of Roxbury and Ipswich, has a copy of another coat of arms, one said to have belonged to Robert How of Hatfield in the County of Essex, England, and said to be the same borne by the families of How, Howe, Hoee and Howes, descended from a common stock and residing in the counties of Essex and Suffolk, England.

"Mr. Sydenham Howe of Nova Scotia, a descendant of Abraham of Roxbury, has a chart of the 'Genealogy of the Family of Howe of Marlborough, Mass., originally of Somerset, England,' which makes Colonel Thomas Howe 'the founder of Marlborough' and brother of 'Rev. John Howe, D. D., of Emble, County of Somerset.' This chart also describes the family arms.

"It will be observed that 'John Howe of Emble, County of Somerset' figures in two of the above mentioned coats of arms, but it is not explained how this agrees with the supposition of the descendants of John of Sudbury and Marlborough that their ancestor came from the County of Warwick or with the supposition of the descendants of James of Roxbury and Ipswich that their ancestor came from the County of Essex, especially in view of the fact that the counties of Essex, Warwick and Somerset are each remote from the others."

In 1901 I submitted to Mr. Henry E. Woods, chairman of the Committee on Heraldry of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, and an acknowledged authority on heraldry, the various coats of arms, together with all the information about them in my possession. The conclusion of Mr. Woods was that all were spurious. The one owned by Mrs. Helen Bradley, he states, was gotten up by John Coles, "Heraldry Painter," a notorious fraud who resided for a time in Boston and then disappeared, presumably returning to England.

The Wayside Inn coat of arms fared no better at the hands of Mr. Woods. There was, he says, "no Charles How, Earl of Lancaster, either in the reign of Charles I or any other reign, and there has been no Earl of Lancaster since the 14th century." Nor was there any Baron How of Wormleighton," the Barons of Wormleighton being of the Spencer family. Moreover, the blazoning on the Wayside Inn coat of arms was, according to Mr. Woods, "bad heraldry." And finally Mr. Woods concludes, that the various coats of arms referred to are "to any one familiar with the subject and facts, of no earthly value in determining anything."

"I acquiesce myself, and I think that most of the Howes in America will acquiesce, in the iconoclastic conclusion of Mr. Woods, and the few who still wish to lay claim to any English coat of arms must produce some better evidence than we now have by which to establish their claim.

"I may also add that I have had an extended correspondence with Mr. Stuart C. Wade, a well-known genealogist of New York City and author of the Wade genealogy. He is quite as skeptical as Mr. Woods about the connection of any of the Howes of America with any of the English nobility, and he is even more emphatic in his denunciation of the impostors who make a living by getting up spurious coats of arms."

In order to confirm the opinions of these two authorities on heraldry announced some years ago, the present editor has submitted the matter in 1928 to Capt. G. Andrews Moriarty of the Committee on Heraldry of the New England Historic Genealogical Society and he agrees fully with the conclusions of the authorities hereinbefore mentioned, that the above arms are probably spurious.

John Fiske (Beginnings of New England, page 63) estimates that "two thirds of the early settlers of New England were from the eastern counties of England, one sixth from the southwestern counties of Devonshire, Dorset and Somerset and one sixth from other parts of England." A considerable portion of those who settled in Boston and the neighboring towns came from the English county of Suffolk as evidenced by the names of towns shown on the map of 1677: Ipswich, Groton, Haverhill, Sudbury, Medfield and Rowley. Dedham, Bilerica and Chelmsford were Essex county names in England.

Considering the state of England about the time of the great Puritan exodus from that country, it is not strange that there should be no record of the dates when the early Howes left England, nor any intimation of the localities where they resided when living there. There is a very good reason why we do not have any record to aid us, because most of the early emigrants were Puritans and left to avoid the persecutions of Charles I and to escape the vengeance of Archbishop Laud and the High Commission. Many left to avoid payment of a hateful subsidy and refused to take the "oaths of allegiance and supremacie." They therefore left secretly and in defiance of the "Order in Council" of February 28, 1633, forbidding masters of vessels to receive passengers without certificates of having taken the "oathes of allegiance and supremacie."

Even if we could know with certainty, the dates when they left England and the localities from which they came, it would in most cases be impossible to identify them and establish their connection with any English family by public records there. Mergers and subdivisions of parishes are confusing and the restrictions upon the examination of records in England are particularly cumbersome and annoying.

Most of the Howes in America today are descendants of John of Sudbury and Marlborough, Abraham of Roxbury, Abraham of Watertown and Marlborough, Edward of Lynn and James of Roxbury and Ipswich; all of whom were in Massachusetts soon after the arrival of Governor John Winthrop in 1630. All of them were Englishmen and Puritans. None of the five emigrant ancestors were related to one-another, except that Abraham of Roxbury and James of Roxbury and Ipswich were brothers. Nothing is known about circumstances of sailing except that Edward of Lynn came over in the Truelove in 1635. Besides the five main lines above mentioned, the work contains an appendix of fragmentary lines not yet connected.

The will of Daniel Wait Howe left the manuscript of this genealogy to the New England Historic-Genealogical Society of Boston, to be published under its direction. The Council of the Society voted to publish it if a certain amount of money should be provided by members of the family and chose a committee to solicit funds. The amount of money specified having been subscribed and paid in, a second committee was chosen to prepare the manuscript and proceed with the publication. The committee chose Gilman Bigelow Howe to edit the manuscript and prepare it for printing.

The Society has permitted the committee to make substantial additions to Judge Howe's manuscript, which will materially increase the cost of editing and printing beyond the estimate made in 1924 for publishing the work. The cost of printing has increased considerably since 1924, when the estimate was made. It is hoped that the members of the several Howe families will purchase copies of this work in sufficient number to reimburse the Society for this extra outlay.

Grateful acknowledgment is made to those who have at any time aided in the work, by conducting researches or by furnishing material for the genealogy. Lack of space forbids mentioning their names. Thanks are also extended to those who have contributed money to provide for the publication at this time and a list of the contributors is appended.

Corrections and additions were made to the full extent allowed by circumstances as above stated. As the greater part of Judge Howe's manuscript was compiled previous to 1900 and all of it before his death in 1920, it will readily be seen that it was impossible to bring the genealogy down to date, much as the committee desired to do so. Nevertheless it is believed that the work, as it stands, will be invaluable for genealogical research. It will serve as a basis for completion of lines of many living persons, who will have the advantage for such completion, of recent and satisfactory records. It is hoped that the work will thus be of service to descendants and meet with their approval.

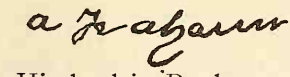
ABRAHAM HOWE

OF ROXBURY, MASS.

Without much doubt Abraham Howe of Roxbury was probably the son of Robert Howe* of Hatfield, Broad Oak, in Essex, England, and it is now generally conceded that he was a brother of James How† of Ipswich, Mass. He settled in Roxbury about 1637 or 38, and was admitted a freeman at Roxbury May 2, 1638, (2 Savage G. D. 473; 5 N. E. H. & G. Reg. 40,) and his name was included in the list for taxation there between 1634 and 1643. (2 N. E. H. & G. Reg. 53.) On May 23, 1639, he and others were given permission by the General Court to continue in their houses at Roxbury though above a half a mile from the meeting house.

He and his wife were members of the Rev. John Eliot's Church at Roxbury. He signed a covenant dated Aug. 31, 1645, to assist in establishing a free school in the town of Roxbury. An earlier covenant, as stated by Rev. John Eliot, was destroyed by fire in April 1645. The school has had a continuous existence since 1645 and is now known as the "Roxbury Latin School." (See Hist. of Grammar School by C. K. Dillaway. See also New England Magazine (1895) Vol. 18, pp. 388-406, Illustrated Art Roxbury Latin School by James De Normandie.) The original covenant is still in existence and bears the signature of Abraham How, of which the following is a fac-simile:—



His land in Roxbury was south of the old road to Dedham (now Center St.) and east of Stony Brook, lying on both sides of the "road leading from the road to Dedham to Rocky Swamp." The road just named is now represented in part by Amory St. and School St. Mr. Edward Willard Howe (a descendant) thinks it safe to assume that

* From an old account book kept by Abraham How, son of James How of Ipswich, Mass., and used by such of his descendants as have held the homestead in Linebrook, Ipswich, Mass., to record births, etc., we learn the following:—"Robbart How lived in Old England in Essex in ye Town of hatfield Brodoak wher Sir francis Barinton lived in Woodrow Green. James How senr. son of sayd Robbart lived in bishop Starford in Old England in a place called hockerill in ye happy and gracious Rain of king James ye first. My mother dyed 21 day of January 1693/4. My brother James dyed 15 day of Febuery 1701. my father dyed 17 day of May 1702."

† There has been a long-standing tradition that Abraham How of Roxbury, and James How of Ipswich, were brothers. Owing to the intelligent and laborious investigation of Mr. Fisher Howe of New York, a descendant of James, and Mr. Edward Willard Howe, of Boston, a descendant of Abraham How, a clue which proves to be of the highest importance has been found in the Court House in Boston, in the records of the proceedings in the Supreme Court of Mass., numbered in the Archives as 1951, upon the claim of John How of Topsfield, Mass., against Richard Callicott and Nathaniel Greenwood, executors the homestead of Abraham How was on the southerly side of Schoo St. between the corner of Amory St. and a point opposite Arcadia St

Later we find him located in Dorchester, where he was appointed a fence-viewer on 8 Dec. 1651. He signed a Dorchester petition to the Governor and General Court 19 Oct. 1664, and his name appears frequently in Dorchester Records to as late as 1670.

He lost his wife by death 7 Dec. 1645, and he evidently married again, as he was granted in 1660 a lot of land in the Milton division of Dorchester lands, and on 18 March 1669, he (called a weaver) with his wife Sara, sold this lot to Robert Badcock.

An attempt has been made to locate the Dorchester homestead but without absolute proof. It is very probable that it was the estate which Abraham's grandson Isaac, (the son of Isaac senior) received by inheritance as stated in his will. This estate Isaac gave to his son Thomas in 1760. It was located in that part of Dorchester, (later Hyde Park, and afterwards annexed to Boston) and was on the northwest side of River street, between Winslow St. and Glenwood Ave. An ancient gambrel-roofed house, the home of several generations of Howes, stood in the situation just named until about 1870.

Dorchester Records contain the marriage of his daughter Deborah, 25 Feb. 1673, and the death of Sarah How, probably his wife, 25 Nov. 1675. Soon after he seems to have left his Dorchester estate in charge of his two sons Isaac and Israel, who were both married, and, perhaps having become enfeebled by age, went to live with his daughter Hester, who was the wife of Henry Mason a maltster of Boston, and died there in 1676, a few months after making his will, which was dated the 26 May 1676; the date of filing the will in the Suffolk Probate Court was 2 Nov. 1676, showing that the date of his death must have been between those two dates. The will is recorded in Boston, (see Suffolk Probate Records, Vol. 6, p. 138,) where the original will is on file. In the same records (Vol. 12, p. 102,) is found an inventory of his estate taken 23 Oct. 1676, and there is also another inventory of his estate "which was at Boston." As copies of these ancient documents are interesting not only to the descendants of Abraham, but are of general interest as specimens of old time documents of that period, exact copies certified by the Probate Register of the estate of Hester Sears, who, as the widow of Henry Mason had married John Sears. Briefly stated the Records show the following facts:

The claim was filed September 7, 1680. In the answer filed by the executors, they mention the claimant as "Cosen How" the controversy did not involve any question of the relationship between the claimant and the decedent Hester, but the undisputed evidence shows conclusively that they were related, and that they were probably first cousins. In his own testimony the claimant stated that he was a relative of Hester. Another witness, Thomas Tower, testified to a conversation with Hester in which she spoke of the claimant as "her Cousin John How." Another witness, Sarah Gold, testified that Hester and John the claimant were own cousins."

After the examination of all data and theories as to the relationship of the two families, and there are some other facts, outside of the mere fact Hester and John were cousins, that would confirm this solution. The ages of Abraham and James were neither so far apart, nor so close together as to preclude the possibility of their being brothers. Indeed their respective ages are given. As there is no doubt that Abraham could write, the fact that he subscribed his mark, instead of his signature to his will, must be attributed to his probable bodily infirmity at the time of its execution.

would strengthen rather than weaken the theory that they were brothers, both came from England probably about the same time, and both settled first, and at about the same time in Roxbury, Mass., and considering that great certainty is rarely obtainable in proving ancient genealogical facts, with the facts that we now have, it would seem to establish a reasonable certainty for the conclusion that James How of Ipswich, Mass., and Abraham How of Roxbury, Mass., were brothers.

Credit for nearly all of the following pages is due to Dr. Oliver Hunt Howe of Cohasset, Mass., and his cousin, Mr. Edward Willard Howe of Boston, who have expended a vast deal of time and labor in examining old town, church, probate and land records, and also various family records, and who have rendered very valuable assistance in compiling the records of various Howe lines other than those of their ancestor, Abraham Howe of Roxbury. Many of the biographical sketches were prepared by them.

Item I giue to my daughter elizabeths Children twenty shillings a peis to as many as shall be Liueing one year after my death.

Item I giue to my daughter Sarahs Children to wit to har son Joseph five pound when he shall Cum to the age of twenty years or when his time is out with his uncle.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. ABRAHAM[2] HOWE (Abraham[1]), born in England and came to this country with his father. He married ALICE MATTOCKS, daughter of James and Mary Mattocks of Boston. They lived in Roxbury, Mass., where he died 21 Nov. 1683. She married second, ——— HARRIS, and was again a widow in 1704. In the settlement of his estate no other children were mentioned than those named below. He was a Puritan of the straitest sect, as he sided with Gov. Endicott and others in the crusade inaugurated during the Commonwealth period against the fashion of men wearing long hair, as appears from his signature to a petition on that subject sent to the General Court by divers of the inhabitants of Roxbury. The petition which is a curious illustration of the times, is given in 35 N. E. H. & Gen. Reg. p. 121-3, together with a fac-simile of his signature.

Children:

5. i. ABRAHAM,[3] bapt. 25 Sept. 1653.

3. ISAAC[2] HOWE (Abraham[1]), born in Roxbury, Mass., 24 June 1639; married HANNAH "ROBIOHN," she is mentioned in the Dorchester Church Records as a member of the Ipswich Church. In Vol. III of the published Probate Records of Essex County, Mass., page 240 in the inventory of the estate of John Woodham of Ipswich, there occurs this item, "due from Hanna Robiohn which is now the wife of Isaak How for one years board I £ 10 s. July 1 1678." According to the Dorchester Records he died there 15 Sept. 1714, and she died there 20 Dec. 1728. They probably lived in Dorchester on the homestead of his father, as there is no will or settlement of his estate appearing on the county records.

Children born in Dorchester:

7. i. ISAAC,[3] b. 7 July 1678.
8. ii. ABRAHAM, b. 7 April 1680.
iii. SAMUEL, b. 17 June 1685; d. 4 Dec. 1688.
iv. HANNAH, b. 16 March 1688-9; d. 25 Sept. 1780. (Hannah in a deed dated in 1748, says that her brother Abraham made a will and gave her one quarter of his real estate.)

4. ISRAEL[2] HOWE (Abraham[1]), born in Roxbury, Mass., 7 July 1644; married ANNE ———, he married second, TABITHA ———, she died in Pembroke, Mass., 16 Sept. 1728. They lived in Dorchester, Mass., where he died 20 Nov. 1715. He was a weaver by occupation.

vi. ISAAC, b. 16 June 1715; m. 20 April 1744, Sarah Tucker of Milton, to which place he moved in 1743, and built the house which later was known as the "Peggy How house" near the cemetery on Randolph Ave. and Centre Street, where he d. 7 Sept. 1769. In his will he left all his property to his widow, and mentioned no children.

vii. JOSEPH, b. 27 March 1716/7; m. 25 Feb. 1768, Mrs. Relief Foster, probably daughter of Edward and Alice Foster, b. 31 Aug. 1722, of Dorchester. They lived in Dorchester where he died 17 Sept. 1793, in 77th year. On 5 Nov. 1793, administration was granted upon the estate of Joseph How, late of Dorchester, yeoman, to his widow Relief How of Dorchester. The Dorchester Records show that "widow Relief Howe died Dec. 13, 1808" and in her will dated 30 Aug. 1798, she devises to various nephews and neices, two named Foster, but no children are mentioned. That this Joseph was the son of Isaac, and grandson of Abraham of Roxbury, is shown by a deed dated 14 April 1761, made by "Joseph How of Dorchester, yoeman," and others named as "children heirs of the late Isaac How of Dorchester." (It was supposed at one time that the above Joseph was the ancestor of the Hon. Joseph Howe of Nova Scotia, but this was a mistake.)

How house (built by her uncle Isaac) and for many years she kept a private school there; she d. unm.

21. JOHN[4] HOWE (John,[3] Israel,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Boston, Mass., 7 Nov. 1706; married in Newbury, Mass., ELIZABETH COMPSTON of Boston, 1729. The Boston Records show that John How, baker, and Elizabeth Compton were published 5 Feb. 1728, and the bans were "forbid by her Mother & Susan Butler." But apparently this did not deter them from getting married as appears from the above record. He appears as John How, baker, on the records; the Boston Records show that on 1 Jan. 1779, John How Jr. of Boston, was appointed guardian of John How senior of Boston, baker, who was adjudged to be a person of unsound mind, and that Edward How of Boston, rope-maker, was bound as surety for John Jr. He lived in Lynn in 1735 and was known as John How, baker; we have no date of his death, or that of his wife Elizabeth.

Children:

42. i. JOHN,[5] b. 8 Sept. 1738.
43. ii. THOMAS.
44. iii. EDWARD COMPTON, b. about 1742.

22. JOSEPH[4] HOWE (John,[3] Israel,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Dorchester, Mass., and bapt. 25 Oct. 1713; married 3 Feb. 1736, SUSANNAH HARROD, she died 22 Nov. 1739, and he married second, 22 May 1740, MARY BOARDMAN, she died 14 Nov. 1747; he married third, REBECCA HART (int. 4 Oct. 1750,) daughter of Capt. Ralph and Mary (Hudson) Hart of Boston, born 21 April 1729, died 28 Jan. 1769, and he married fourthly, 2 Dec. 1773, SARAH FRANKLIN of Boston. He was a tin-plate-worker, and lived in Boston on Marshalls Lane, where he died 24 Dec. 1779. His will, dated 9 Jan. 1777, and proved 14 Jan. 1780, devised property valued at £30184-11s-6d. One of the witnesses to the will was Jonathan Wright, probably the same who married Elizabeth How, daughter of John How, cabinet-maker, of Boston. His widow married second, 19 Sept. 1783, John Deming of Boston, and died 10 March 1788. In the will of Joseph How dated 9 Jan. 1777, he mentions wife Sarah, and children Joseph, John, David, Rebecca, Lois, Sarah, Mary and Abigail. The real estate devised was all in Boston, located on Marshalls Lane. In all the deeds by which the testator had acquired these lands, he is described as "Joseph Howe senior, tin-plate worker of Boston." By the will, Joseph Howe, tin-plate worker, (probably a son) and Joshua Witherle, (probably a son-in-law) were appointed Executors. That the above Joseph How, tin-plate worker, was the father of John Howe, the printer and loyalist, is shown by a deed recorded in the Suffolk Co. Registry of Deeds at Boston 28 June 1792, by which Joseph and John Howe, Rebecca Witherle, Lois, Mary and Abigail Howe and Joshua Witherle, sell to John Green their interest in the real estate on Marshall Lane, Boston, adjoining house of Joseph Howe, tin-plate worker, (meaning Joseph Jr. brother of John the loyalist). The same records also show a mortgage of land on Marshalls Lane to Joseph Howe of Boston, John Howe of Halifax, N. S., Rebecca Witherle, Lois Howe, Abigail Howe and Mary Howe of Boston. That Joseph Howe Sr. of Boston, tin plate worker, was son of John Howe, cordwainer, is shown by a deed on record in the same Registry of Deeds, dated 2 Sept. 1735, in which Joseph Howe, tin-plate worker sells land on Back and Prince streets "which belonged to my father, John How, cordwainer." The land described in this last deed, is the same land conveyed 6 Jan. 1720.

He was a tin-plate worker and lived on Marshalls Lane in Boston. He appears to have been something of a loyalist, and gave the Committee of Correspondence considerable trouble. At a meeting of the Committee held on the 6th of Aug. 1776, they voted to demand of Joseph How Jr. and others a fine for not appearing on the Common at the late Muster of the Training Band and Alarm List, 22 July 1776.

On the 10th of Aug. 1776, the Constable was ordered to notify Joseph How Jr. and others, to appear and pay a fine of £10, and if not paid within twenty-four hours, the addition of £3, will be exacted.

The excuse of said How, was that "it was against his conscience to take up arms for any Government whatever." On 14 Aug. 1776, The Committee met and decided that the excuse was not sufficient, and that they should be prosecuted. On 22nd of Aug. 1776, The Committee of Correspondence ordered Joseph How Jr., tin-plate worker, and eight others, to be prosecuted, and a Complaint was issued to be brought before the Justice. He died in Boston in 1820.

46. JOHN[5] HOWE (Joseph,[4] John,[3] Israel,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Boston, Mass., 14 Oct. 1754; married 7 June 1778, MARTHA MINNS of Boston, at Newport, R. I., she died at Halifax, N. S., 25 Nov. 1790, aged 30 years. He married second, 25 Sept. 1798, MRS. MARY (EDE) AUSTIN, widow of Capt. Henry Austin, and daughter of Capt. William and Sarah (Milton) Ede of Maryland or Virginia. She died in Halifax, N. S., 14 Feb. 1837. He died there 29 Dec. 1835.

He served his time in the office of the "Massachusetts Gazette & Boston News Letter" published by Richard Draper, and after his death in 1774, Mrs. Draper continued the publication, associating Mr. Howe with her as junior partner. He saw the battle of Bunker Hill from one of the old houses there, and nursed the wounded after it was over. On the evacuation of Boston, the paper was published for a short time at Newport, R. I., later being proscribed and banished, he removed to Halifax, N. S., taking with him his wife Martha, and his printing press. "To be a loyalist involved the loss of property, country and friends; and it required a man to stand firm to his principles, whether political or religious." He published a newspaper in Halifax called the Halifax Journal, commencing in 1786, having on it the names "Howe & McKinstry" as the publishers. He was for many years King's Printer and Postmaster General. He was also a magistrate—presided at the Police office and held courts. He was a tall man, well proportioned and strongly built, had brown hair and blue eyes. He was a quiet, sedate man, unobtrusive and very unambitious; seldom ruffled and always kind. Though a true Briton to the day of his death, he loved New England and old Boston especially with filial regard. He never lost an opportunity of serving a Boston man if in his power.

101. JOSEPH[6] HOWE (John,[5] Joseph,[4] John,[3] Israel,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Halifax, N. S., 15 Dec. 1804; married 2 Feb. 1828, CATHERINE SUSAN MACNAB, daughter of Capt. John and Ellen (Davis) MacNab. (Capt. John MacNab was of the Nova Scotia Fencibles.) At the Howe Family Gathering in Framingham, Mass., in 1871, he delivered the principal address. He died in Halifax 1 June 1873, and his widow died there 5 July 1890.

A sketch of his life is given here, as written by his son Sydenham Howe of Middleton, N. S.

Joseph Howe at the age of 15 entered the office of the "Halifax Gazette" conducted by his father and brother, and served there until 1826. In company with J. D. Spike he published "The Acadian" during 1827. At the end of the year, Mr. Howe purchased "The Nova Scotian" and conducted that paper with marked ability until 1841. In 1835, having published a letter reflecting on the magistracy of Halifax, and their management of public institutions, Mr. Howe was tried for criminal libel. No lawyer being willing to conduct his case, he defended himself in a speech of over six hours. "The Jury retired for ten minutes, when they returned with a verdict of Not Guilty." The breathless silence in which it was heard was broken by shouts of applause from immense crowds in and around the court house. After receiving the congratulations of his friends who were immediately about him, the defendant begged leave to return thanks to the Court for the kindness and consideration which had been extended to him throughout the trial. He trusted he had taken no liberty to which a British subject was not entitled but he felt that the court might, as had been done elsewhere, have broken his argument by interruptions, and tied him up within narrower limits. On leaving the Province building he was borne by the populace to his home, amidst deafening acclamations. The people kept holiday that day and the next.

Musical parties paraded the streets at night. All the sleds in town were turned out in procession, with banners; and all the ranks and classes seemed to join in felicitations on the triumph of the press. The crowds were briefly addressed by Mr. Howe, from his window who besought them to keep the peace, to enjoy the triumph in social intercourse round their own firesides; and to teach their children the names of the twelve men who had established the freedom of the press.

The magistrates resigned in a body and the city of Halifax was shortly afterwards incorporated.

Up to this time Mr. Howe had been only known as a journalist, and not as a public speaker. A general election coming on in Nov. 1839, he was nominated as a member of the House of Assembly for his native county, and elected by a majority of upwards of a thousand. He immediately took a leading part in the business of the house, advocated changes in the constitution, and by voice and pen urged the abolition of the old "government by family compact" and the establishment of "Responsible Government." After some years of constitutional agitation, Mr. Howe and his friends had the satisfaction of seeing their views prevail and the system of Responsible Government firmly established in Nova Scotia and the neighboring provinces. Mr. Howe was accused of being disloyal and of sympathizing with the rebels in Canada, but defended himself in public letters and speeches from all such charges. He has been aptly named "The Father of Responsible Government" as it is largely to his exertions that the provinces are indebted for this great boon.

In 1838 Mr. Howe drafted a memorial to the British Government, asking for the establishment of steam communication between Great Britain and her possessions in North America, which led to the establishment of the well known "Cunard" line.

In 1835 he had published a series of articles pointing out the advantages to be derived from railway communications between the several parts of the Province, but it was not till 1854 that he secured the necessary legislation. In that year he became Chief Commissioner of Railways, and in 1855 opened to traffic the first section of the railway from Halifax to Windsor.

Mr. Howe took a deep interest in the cause of Education and though unable when in power, to secure an act establishing a free school system, he nobly supported the measure when it was introduced by his political opponents and thereby put this great blessing within the reach of all.

Mr. Howe's aim through life was to advance the interests of his native Province and of the great Empire of which she forms a part. He was intensely loyal to the British Crown, but did not hesitate to assert that colonists were entitled to all the rights and privileges enjoyed by residents of the British Isles, and as early as 1854, in a speech which attracted much attention on both sides of the Atlantic, advocated the "Organization of the Empire" by granting colonists the right to share in the Imperial Councils, and to become eligible to the highest positions in the Army, Navy, Diplomatic and Civil Services. He never failed to impress upon the Imperial authorities the fact that unless the colonists were fairly treated, they would be led to assert their independence, not by becoming annexed to the United States, but by setting up for themselves. Lorenzo Sabine, in his "Loyalists of the American Revolution," says of Mr. Howe "His speeches and Public Letters" published in Boston in 1858, contain demands upon the Home Government for the extension of Colonial rights and privileges which have no parallel in the documentary history of the Revolution. In a word this son of a loyalist speaks in bolder tones than any whig of 76 dared to do in his loftiest mood."

Mr. Howe sat in the House of Assembly of Nova Scotia from 1837 to 1854, and 1859 to 1863, a large portion of which time he was the recognized leader of the liberal party and for some years leader of the Government. In 1862 he was appointed British Fishery Commissioner under the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States, and served until the abrogation of the treaty. In 1867 he was elected member of the House of Commons of Canada, but being opposed to the terms of the "Confederation Act" and to the manner in which Nova Scotia was forced into the union, he spent two years in striving for a repeal of the Act, finding this impracticable he negotiated for "Better Terms" and having secured to the Province a large sum of money, he entered the Dominion Government and remained a member of it till May 1873, when he was appointed Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia. This position he did not long fill. His health had been failing for some time and on the 1st of June 1873 he passed suddenly away. His death was universally regretted. "Joe Howe" was known and loved in every hamlet and he was sincerely mourned by thousands. A public funeral was accorded him. A life size portrait hangs in the Legislative Hall of Nova Scotia and his native city is about to erect a statue of her honored son.

As a litterateur Mr. Howe was known in all the provinces as well as in the neighboring republic and the Mother Country. His speech on Reciprocity at the Detroit convention in 1863; at the Burns Centenary in Boston in 1857; Shakespeare Oration in Halifax in 1864, are productions of which none need be ashamed, while his speech at the Family Gathering in 1871 will be of more immediate interest to members of the "Howe" Family.

Mr. Howe was also a poet and some of his pieces attracted attention when the author was only 16. A volume of "Poems and Essays" published after his death contains many of his best productions, and shows the versatility of his genius and his intense love for his native land.

As a statesman and an orator it is doubtful if British America has produced his equal. He swayed audiences at will, moving them to laughter or tears, while his political foresight appears simply marvelous. He had read largely, travelled extensively and lost no opportunity of gaining knowledge. His unfailing good humor gained personal friends even among political opponents.

He never forgot a face, rarely a name, and was accessible at all times to the humblest citizen. He sought power and influence, not for his own benefit, but for the good of his country, and died poor because he was too honest to consider his own interests.

iv. MARIA LOUISE, b. in 1837; m. Capt. John Quackenbush.

179. DR. SAMUEL GRIDLEY[7] HOWE (Joseph N.,[6] Edward C.,[5] John,[4] John,[3] Israel,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Boston, Mass., 10 Nov. 1801; married 27 April 1843, JULIA WARD, daughter of Samuel and Julia Rush (Cutler) Ward, born in New York City, 27 May 1819. He graduated Brown University in 1821, and Harvard Medical School in 1824. Soon after his graduation he went to Greece, where the Greek revolution was in progress, and tendered his services in behalf of the revolutionists and later became surgeon-general of the Greek Fleet.

Later he returned to America and helped to raise money and supplies for the Greeks and also to found a colony of Greek exiles at Corinth. So highly were his services appreciated that they gained for him the title of "The Lafayette of the Greek Revolution" and they were commemorated by Whittier in the poem "The Hero." He completed his medical education in Paris, and returned to America in 1831. Going to Prussia soon afterwards to take supplies to the Polish refugees there, he was arrested and imprisoned for about five weeks in Berlin by the Prussian authorities.

Returning to America he devoted the remainder of his life to philanthropic work of various kinds, such as educational and prison reforms. He was conspicuous in his efforts to improve the methods for the education of the blind. In 1844 he became superintendent of the Massachusetts Institution for the Blind, retaining that position to the end of his life.

His sympathies were always with the oppressed, and as might be presumed, he was an uncompromising opponent of slavery. He was one of the founders, and was for a time the editor of "The Commonwealth," an anti-slavery paper established in Boston in 1851. During the Civil war he was a member of the Sanitary Commission, and also served with Robert Dale Owen and James McKay on a commission to inquire into the condition of the freedmen.

In 1863 he was made chairman of the Massachusetts Board of State Charities and wrote the annual reports from 1865 to 1874.

In 1870 he was appointed, together with Benjamin F. Wade and Andrew D. White, to investigate and report on the resources and condition of the inhabitants of San Domingo.

He was the author of the "Historical Sketch of the Great Revolution" which passed through several editions, and contributed many articles to the magazines and newspapers upon educational and philanthropic subjects. He received from Brown University the degree of L. L. D. and was the recipient of many medals and diplomas from European countries in recognition of his services in behalf of the blind. His wife, Julia Ward Howe, was no less noted in America. She became known in literature in early life and is the author of many volumes and of numerous contributions to the magazines. She is best known, however, as the author of the world famous poem "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" first published in the Atlantic Monthly. She was also widely known throughout America as a lecturer. She made the cause of the advancement of women her life work, and was prominently identified with many organizations, having that cause in view. He died in Boston, 9 Jan. 1876, she died in Boston 18 Oct. 1910.

Children:

i. JULIA ROMANA, b. in Rome, Italy, 12 March 1844; married 31 Dec. 1870, Michael Anagnos, son of Demetrios A. Theodore and Kallina Panajiotes, b. at Papingon in the Jannina province of Epiros, 7 Nov. 1837. He graduated at the University of Athens, and afterwards studied law for three years, but he went into the newspaper work through patriotic motives and became editor of a leading Athenian paper. In 1867 he became assistant to Dr. Samuel G. Howe in distributing the American supplies and money for the relief of the Cretan refugees. A warm friendship between the two men led Mr. Anagnos to come to Boston, where he later succeeded Dr. Howe as director of the Perkins Institution and Mass. Asylum for the Blind, a position which he held for many years; she d. in Boston, 10 March 1886; no children.

Y., 14 May 1922 and she d. 26 March 1926, at Nassau, N. P., Bahamas, W. I.; no children. He graduated from Harvard University in 1869, A.M. in 1872, and from the Mass. Institute of Technology, in 1871. He studied the manufacture of steel at the Bessemer Steel Works at Troy, N. Y., and in 1872 became superintendent of the works of the Joliet Iron and Steel Company at Joliet, Ill. He was actively engaged in metallurgical manufacture until 1883, making one important trip to Chili and later designing and building the works of the Orford Nickel and Copper Co. at Capelton, Canada, and at Bergen Point, N. J. From 1883 to 1897 he lived in Boston, was a consulting metallurgist, an expert in metallurgical patent cases and a lecturer on metallurgy at the Mass. Institute of Technology. In 1897 he accepted the chair of metallurgy at Columbia University, N. Y. At the Paris Expositions in 1889 and 1890 he was a juror in the class of "Mining and Metallurgical Processes," and in 1893 he was president of the jury on "Mines and Mining" at the World's Columbian Exposition. Prof. Howe was a member of many scientific and technical societies, having been president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers during the International Engineering Congress at Chicago in 1893. He was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and a non-resident member of the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia, an honor paid only to scientists of high attainments. He has enriched metallurgical literature with about a hundred papers and memoirs, all of them valuable, some of them classical. In 1890 appeared his treatise on "The Metallurgy of Steel," a monumental work, which called forth the admiration of the metallurgical world and which will forever testify to the magnitude of the intellectual power of its author. His writings, crowned by this masterly production, brought his speedy recognition by the scientific societies of the world, among which stand foremost the award of the Bessemer gold medal—the highest distinction to which a metallurgist may aspire and which was presented to him in 1895. He has also received from the German Society for the Promotion of Industry its gold medal—the highest distinction which it can bestow upon a foreigner. The Franklin Institute of Philadelphia also presented him with its highest award, the Elliot Cresson gold medal. He has also received the decoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, France.

He served as State Senator from Rutland Co., Vt., in 1865 and 1866, and thus was the third John Howe in his line to bear the title of "Hon." Soon after the breaking out of the Civil war, he was appointed by Gov. Frederick Holbrook to manage the business of State aid for the families of Vermont soldiers, and entered upon his duties 15 Nov. 1861; in this work he manifested great energy and devotion and unusual kindness and sympathy, so that he gained the name of the "Soldiers Friend." Innumerable trusts were committed to him in public and private life and he was one of the originators and a director of the State Reform School at Waterbury, Vt. Although not a college man, he received the complimentary title of "A.M." from the University of Vermont. He had marked mechanical tastes and executive ability. As an organizer, his capacity was unlimited; he was a man of large and generous nature, ready sympathies and great public spirit and patriotism. He died in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 16 Oct. 1870. His widow was living in Brandon, Vt., in 1898.

OF ROXBURY AND IPSWICH, MASS.

There is no doubt that James How of Roxbury and Ipswich, and Abraham How of Roxbury were brothers, a fact that has been proven by court records; and that they were sons of Robert How of Hatfield Broadoak, Essex, England, has been proven by the family record kept by Abraham How, son of James How, the immigrant ancestor. James How probably came to this country with his father-in-law, John Dane, about 1635 or 36, and first settled in Roxbury, in the Province of Massachusetts Bay, where he was admitted freeman 17 May 1637. He married in the Parish of Bishop Stortford, Herts, England, 27 June 1628, ELIZABETH DANE, daughter of John Dane. That she was the daughter of John Dane is proven by the Will of John Dane, in which he mentions his daughter How. Dr. John Dane, Jr., of Ipswich, Mass., in his biographical sketch, written in 1682, mentions his "sister How when she was a little girl as coming from Berkhamstead to Bishop Starford, Herts, England, where their father had a house," and he also states "I went to my Brother Hows father,"—"a very onest man."

From the old Account Book that was kept by Abraham How, son of James How, Sr., and used by such of his descendants as have inherited the old homestead in Linebrook Parish, Ipswich, Mass., to record births, marriages and deaths, and other miscellaneous items, we find the following entry: "Robbart How lived in Old England in Essex in ye Town of hatfield Broadoak wher Sir francis Barinton lived in Woodrow Green, James How senr son of sayd Robbart lived in bishop Starford in Old England in a place called hockerill in ye happy and gracious Rain of king James ye first."

Hatfield Broadoak, the residence town of Robert How, is a parish comprising about 9000 acres, with a population in 1920 of not more than 2000 souls. It is about twenty-five miles north of London, and about six miles southeast of Bishops Stortford, Hertfordshire. The title in general usage, Hatfield Broad-oak, was derived from a gigantic oak tree in Hatfield Forest, and the Church of the Parish has existed on the present site for a thousand years.

The parish registers, except for one page, dated 1558, are in an old paper book, commenced in 1550, and from that year are perfect. By direction of Mr. Fisher Howe of New York City, (a descendant of James How) the records of this parish were examined by his nephew, Dr. Archibald Murray in 1900; later Mr. Howe made a personal visit to Hatfield Broad-oak, and vicinity, and it is to him that we are indebted for this most valuable information concerning this branch of the Howe Family. He caused to be made several photo-stat copies of some of the pages of the parish register of Bishops Stortford, Herts.

The following are some of the entries as copied from that Parish Register.

BAPTISMS.

1630. Mar. 13, Elizabeth How, dau. of James d.——— 1633. Mar. 23, James How, son of James.

MARRIAGES.

1628. June 27, James How of Hatfield and Elizabeth Dane of the Parish.

BURIALS.

1629. May 14, the unbaptized child of James How.

All of the above undoubtedly refer to James How of Roxbury and Ipswich, his wife and children, but nothing further was discovered upon the records of that Parish.

The family record as shown in the old Account Book of Abraham How, (son of James senr.) of Linebrook Parish, Ipswich, provides a very solid foundation for the English ancestry of two of the sons of Robert How, namely:—James How of Roxbury and Ipswich, and Abraham How of Roxbury, immigrants to New England prior to 1640.

The old How Account Book mentioned above, (a vital feature of the family genealogy), is a volume of English origin, of 180 pages, each leaf numbered and inscribed upon both sides, and none of the original leaves are missing. The sheets measure 12 inches long by 7½ inches wide, the paper is of excellent quality, only the sheets at either end have suffered serious damage, the various inks used during the centuries, still retain their brilliancy, and all entries except those made upon pages mutilated, can be read without difficulty. The original binding, still in service, is of vellum, and is in good condition, but inevitably is worn through in places, and is so discolored as to resemble leather.

"Abraham How. His Book, 1682," is written upon the first page. Upon the death of Abraham How, the volume together with the old Homestead passed into the hands of his son Mark How; later the book with the homestead passed into the hands of Nathaniel How, son of Lieut. Mark How. The next one to inherit the homestead and the Account Book, was Emerson How, son of the above Nathaniel. The widow of Emerson Howe and her only child, Celia (Mrs. George A. Prescott), guarded with jealous care the old Account Book, as also many documents, ancient and exceedingly precious, concerning the How family. Soon after the death of Mrs. Prescott, the property was sold, and Mr. Prescott presented the Old Account Book to the Ipswich Historical Society.

James How and his wife were for some time members of Rev. John Elliot's church in Roxbury, as is shown by the printed church records, but no dates are given:

"James How."
"——— How the Wife of Jam[s] How."

Apparently at a later date, appears

"Abraham How."
"——— How, the wife of Abraham How."

James How and his wife remained in Roxbury only a few years, as he sold his house and land in Roxbury, 1 April 1641. Then he and his father-in-law, John Dane, with their families, journeyed northward to the new plantation, which had been recently named Ipswich, and there took up his permanent abode. At Ipswich in 1641, James How was made a Commoner; in 1641 he was granted six acres of upland; he was elected Town Constable in 1648, and in the following year he was chosen one of the seven men to "fix the Rates." He appears to have been a farmer and a weaver, and a man of excellent repute, as we learn from the Court Records, he was often styled Goodman How, a title of honor not often bestowed. In 1650 he was granted a tract of 100 acres located in the western section of Ipswich, known as "Ipswich Farms." There with additional acres purchased later, James How lived the remainder of his life, a period of fifty-four years. Later this part of the town was made a parish, known as Linebrook Parish. Land was set off very near to "the first House" to his son James Junr. The son John settled in Topsfield, but Abraham, the youngest son continued to live with his father. In 1682 he states in the "How Book," "Agreed with Thomas Perly to build me a barn forty too foot long and 22 foot wide and 12 foot between joynts and he is to set ye frame to clabord and shingall and 2 leantos all to be don compleat for ..... £31, 10, 00."

In 1684 he and his wife are named as members of the church in Topsfield. On the "21 day of January 1693-4," Elizabeth (Dane) How, wife of James How, died, after a wedded life of sixty-five years and seven months.

We find inscribed in the Old Account Book, by the hand of Abraham his son, "my father dyed 17 day of May 1702." There seems to have been considerable uncertainty as to the date of his birth; Judge Sewall in his diary of that year, says, "May 19th Mr. James How, a good man of Ipswich, 104 years old, is buried. Died I think on Lord's Day night, just about the time the News of the Kings Death was brought from Madero." Savage says, that at the time of his death, he was only 96, and it appears that in a deposition given by him in 1666, he stated his age at that time as 61, and again in a deposition dated 28 June 1692, James How senr. says, he is "aged about 94."

On the 12th day of January 1699-1700, James executed a "deed of gift" whereby he divided his property among his children. The body of the instrument was drawn by Nehemiah Jewett, "a man of affairs" resident in Rowley, who was also a witness, as was Isaac Foster Junr. and Love How, the latter a grand daughter of James.

The names of the children of James How were gained from various sources, but there may have been others, to us unknown.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. JAMES[2] HOWE (James[1]), born in Hatfield, Essex, England, baptized 23 March 1633; married 13 April 1658, ELIZABETH JACKSON, daughter of William and Deborah Jackson of Rowley, Mass., supposed to have been born in England about 1635. She was one of those unfortunate victims of the Salem witchcraft delusion. She was tried on 30 June 1692, and executed on Gallows Hill in Salem, Mass., 19 July 1692. The memory of her is now held in high esteem by her descendants. During the witchcraft craze some trouble had arisen between her family and that of one of her neighbors, and the neighbor's child, a little girl, having been attacked with some kind of fits, Mrs. How was charged with bewitching her, and in those times suspicion was fatal. The ministers were called in to see the girl and hear her testimony, and that of her parents, but though the family tried to persuade the girl to call "Goodwife How" a witch, she refused to do so. Mrs. How's bearing throughout the trial was such as to indicate the highest type of womanhood. Some of the witnesses testified that they "often heard her speaking of those persons that raised these reports of her and we never heard her speak badly of them, for the same. We never heard her revile any person that hath accused her with witch-craft, but pitied them and said I pray God forgive them for they harm themselves more than me."

The husband was stricken with blindness and one of the most touching scenes in the course of the prosecution, was the father being led by one of the daughters, twice a week to visit the mother in prison. One of the girls went to Boston, and sought executive clemency, but in vain. The story is sad and sickening in all its details, but it reflects no discredit upon the unfortunate victim. She spoke with prophetic accuracy when she said of those who were persecuting her, that they harmed themselves more than they did her; as Mr. Upham Wells says "There is no more disgraceful page in our annals, than that which details the testimony given at the trial and records the conviction and execution of Elizabeth How."

Later legal proceedings were instituted to recover damages for her execution, which resulted in an allowance being made in 1711, of £4-14 s, to Elizabeth's daughters Mary and Abigail, and to "James How, Martha How and Sarah How, being ye children of her only son John How, deceased." Among the receipts preserved in the Essex County archives "of ye relations &c of ye Sufferers in ye year 1692," is that of Isaac How (a descendant of Abraham How of Roxbury,) who married Elizabeth's daughter Deborah, as follows: "May 1, 1712, Recd on behalf of my wife Deborah How Two pounds Seven Shillings in full. Isaac How." James died 15 Feb. 1701-2.

His will dated 19 Nov. 1701, and proved 11 March 1701-2, mentions his daughter "Dabora," his other two daughters Mary

How and Abigail How, who have taken care of me for several years." The will also mentions "my deceased daughter Elizabeth Jackson's children," also "my grand-daughters Martha How and Sara (unmarried).

Children:

i. ELIZABETH,[3] b. 1 June 1661; m. Caleb Jackson, son of Nicholas and Sarah (Riley) Jackson, b. 25 April 1652; she d. 20 April 1701.

Children:

1. Elizabeth, b. 28 Feb. 1683.
2. Mary, b. 28 Nov. 1685.
3. Caleb, b. 20 June 1687.
4. Abigail.
5. Joshua, b. 2 Sept. 1696.
6. An Infant, d. 20 May 1698.

v. DEBORAH, b. 11 May 1685; m. Isaac How of Roxbury (see Abraham How of Roxbury).

3. JOHN[2] HOWE (James[1]), was probably born in Roxbury, Mass., about 1637; according to the Essex Institute Quarterly, Vol 20, p. 227, we find that he married MARY, daughter of Richard and Alice Clark, born 2 June 1642 (but according to the record furnished by Miss Margaret Howe of Danvers, Mass., he married MARY, daughter of Peter Cooper, born in Rowley, Mass., 2 June 1642); she died 2 March 1676-7; he married second, about 1678, SARAH TOWNE, probably a daughter of Edward Towne; she died, and he married third, MRS. SARAH DENNIS, widow of Thomas Dennis of Ipswich, Mass. He seemed to have been one of the early settlers of Topsfield, Mass., and shared in the first division of land in that town, at a meeting held the 14th of the 10th month 1661. His name appears as one of the Selectmen; he was chosen Constable 1675-8, Town Clerk 1679, Selectman in 1687, and held the title of Captain in 1687. The Essex County Records contain the copy of a deed from John How to his brother Abraham, viz:—

"Know all people to whom this wrighting may come that I John How, living in Topsfield, ——— doe give grant, bargain and sell to my brother Abraham, living in Ipswich, in the same county, a certain parcell of meadow of three acres, be it more or less, it being a piece of meadow given to the said John How by his honored father James How, ——— In witness whereof I have set my hand and seal this ninth day of April one thousand six hundred eighty four," Signed by James How senr.

John How.

According to the Court Records of Essex County, John and Ephraim How of Topsfield, appeared as witnesses against John Gould of Topsfield for seditious words against the colony by John Gould July 11, 1686, the court being held 19 Aug. 1686. According to the same records in 1655, John How was fined by the court, and his father appeared and paid the fine. He died 16 Dec. 1728, aged 91 years; Sarah his widow died 6 May 1730. His will dated 19 May 1725, and proved 23 Dec. 1728, mentions, wife Sarah, sons, John, Benjamin and Joseph, also daughters Lydia, Sarah and Ann, and his daughter Lydia's child Isaac (under age). He names sons, Benjamin and Joseph as executors.

Children born in Topsfield:

i. SARAH,[3] b. 12 Aug. 1665; m. 2 March 1685, John Thurlow of Newbury, Mass., son of Francis and Anne (Morse), b. in Newbury, 25 March 1660.

ix. LYDIA, b. 20 Dec. 1686; d. 14 May 1732. Her brother Benjamin was appointed administrator of her estate 29 May 1732. She had a child named Isaac Cummings, b. 4 Dec. 1719, d. at Louisburg in 1746.

7. x. BENJAMIN, b. 5 Jan 1688.

xi. HANNAH, b. 1 March 1690-1; d. 1 Nov. 1695.

xii. ABIGAIL, b. 6 Aug. 1692; not living in 1725.

xiii. JOSEPH, b. 30 Sept. 1697; m. 2 April 1729, Mrs. Phebe (Perkins) Goodhall, widow of Thomas Goodhall, and daughter of Elisha and Katherine (Towne) Perkins, b. 10 Aug. 1690, d. 5 June 1737. He d. 27 Feb. 1742.

4. ABRAHAM[2] HOWE (James[1]), born in Ipswich, Mass., about 1649. "Abraham How was maryed to Sarah Peabody ye 20th of March 1678." So wrote Abraham How in the Account Book, and on the same page, he records with care, the birth of each of his children. Sarah Peabody was the daughter of Francis and Mary (Foster) Peabody, and they settled on the homestead of his father, in that part of Ipswich, known as Linebrook Parish, and later became the owner. Many business transactions as shown in the same Account Book by his own hand, prove that he was, as his father had been, a weaver, while tilling his farm, and lending a hand to his neighbors. But interests other than weaving and farming, demanded his services. He credits himself in 1703, for one day with John How to vew bounds and wrights evedence," "Four days to Court and one day to Ipswich before Mr. Apleton." He drew legal papers for members of his own family, and seems to have maintained throughout his life, general oversight of their "occasions."

The basis of barter and exchange, also the fact that the family in general were well shod, is indicated by two entries in the Account Book:—"3 day of november 1692. Sould an axe to Thomas Knowlton at ye pris of five pound to be payed 3 pound in malt and forty shillings in shoues. 5,00,00" The opposite side of the ledger reads:

"Recaved of Thomas Knowlton by one payer of shouse for my father,— 00,03,00," and a payer of shoues for my mother 00,06,00," and a payer of shous for Abijah,
a payer of shoes for myself—self, 00,08,00, & a payer of shoes for Increase 00,06,00, and a payer of shoes Abraham How 00,04,00, a payer of shoes—first shoes for a child 00,01,06, one payer for marah How and a payer for hannah 00,12,00, one payer for Love and one payer James How 00,12,00,

The following all inclusive-entries are grouped by Abraham How,—

"6 April 1701 Recaved by a whove & a whorley gige 00,00,06,"
"(no date) by making a coffin for my father 00,05,09,"
"1702 May, for hay 00,04,02," Claibords 00,03,0 ,"

Termination of the life of Abraham How is fixed by the following entered in the Book by his son, Mark: "My father was taken sick the 16 day of January 1717-18, and died the 21 day of the same month in the same year, Mark How." But he failed to supply his father's age. His widow died 29 Sept. 1732.

Children born in Ipswich:

i. Love,[3] b. 16 Jan. 1678; m. 1722, Samuel Porter, son of Joseph and Anne (Hathorne) Porter of Salem, b. 4 Aug. 1669, d. prior to 25 June 1750. In her will dated 12 July 1759, and proved 13 Sept. 1762, she mentions her brothers Abraham and Mark, and her grandsons Israel and Edmund Putnam. She was probably a second wife and the mother of Lydia, only child.
   1. Lydia, m. John Putnam, son of John and Hannah (Cutler) Putnam of Salem, Mass.

8. ii. Increase, b. 13 April 1680.
9. iii. Samson, b. 13 Nov. 1682.
10. iv. Abraham, b. 27 June 1686.
v. Abijah, b. 17 Aug. 1689; m. (int. 23 June 1721) Hannah Dow. The records show the intention of marriage of Abijah How and Mary Brown, 10 March 1749, and again the intention of marriage of Lt. Abijah How and Rachel White of Gloucester, Mass., 30 Sept. 1752. There are no children mentioned.
11. vi. Israel, b. 24 Jan. 1692-3.
12. vii. Mark, b. 28 March 1695.

THIRD GENERATION.

5. JOHN[3] HOWE (James,[2] James[1]), born in Ipswich, Mass., 17 April 1671; married HANNAH ——— (ancestry unknown). It is thought that she was a Brown, and perhaps a sister or a daughter of Nathaniel Brown of Haverhill, Mass. He died 22 May 1697, and his widow was appointed administratrix of his estate. She married, second, Ephraim Roberts of Haverhill.

Children:

i. MARTHA,[4] b. 13 June 1691; she was living in Rowley, Mass., in 1717, unm.

ii. SARAH, b. 8 Feb. 1692-3; m. 28 Feb. 1711-12, Thomas Wood, son of Samuel and Margaret (Elithorpe) Wood, b. 4 Nov. 1689. She d. 21 Jan. 1714-5.

Children:

1. Thomas, b. 11 Jan. 1712-3.

13. iii. JAMES, b. in Ipswich, 29 March 1694-5.

6. JOHN HOWE (John,[2] James[1]), born in Topsfield, Mass., 3 March 1669; married 27 Sept. 1697, SARAH CAVES. In the Registry of Deeds at Salem, Mass., there is a deed recorded from "John How of Middleton, Yoeman, to my son Mark of Middleton, Yoeman," dated 1731-2. Middleton was organized in 1728 from portions of the towns of Topsfield, Salem, Boxford and Andover. There is no doubt that John How of Middleton, was the son of Capt. John How of Topsfield.

Children born in Boxford:

14. i. MARK,[4] b. 18 April 1701.

ii. MARY, b. 3 April 1703; d. young.

iii. SARAH, bapt. in Topsfield, 7 April 1706; m. 25 April 1733, Ebenezer Stiles, son of Ebenezer Stiles of Temple, N. H.

Children:

1. Ebenezer, b. 10 Feb. 1733-4.
2. Ezekiel, b. 5 Oct. 1735.
3. Joseph, b. 15 July 1737.
4. Abner, b. 2 Aug. 1739.
5. Asa, b. 3 Nov. 1741.
6. John, b. 4 April 1744.

15. iv. JOHN, bapt. 6 March 1708-9.

v. MARY, bapt. in 1711; m. 13 Jan. 1737, Samuel Farnum of Andover, Mass.

vi. ZERUIAH, bapt. 15 May 1715; m. 21 April 1737, Paul Averill, son of Paul and Sarah (Andrews) Averill, b. in Topsfield, Mass., 16 Dec. 1711, d. 1805 or 6.

Children born in Middleton:

1. Sarah, b. 26 July 1738.
2. John, b. 2 Jan. 1740.
3. Paul, b. 27 Sept. 1742.
4. Elijah, b. 28 April 1745.
5. Mark, b. 12 May 1747.
6. Sarah, b. 28 July 1750.
7. Mary, b. 11 May 1752.

8. Joseph, b. 6 Oct. 1757.

16. vii. JOSEPH, b. 7 Oct. 1719.

7. BENJAMIN[3] HOWE (John,[2] James[1]), born in Topsfield, Mass., 5 Jan. 1688; married 6 Dec. 1711, ALICE BRIDGES of Ipswich, Mass. His name appears on a list of church members in Topsfield 18 May 1751, but it is marked "dismissed." They lived in Topsfield, where the children were born. He probably moved to Sutton, Mass.

Children born in Topsfield:

i. BENJAMIN,[4] bapt. 20 April 1712; d. young.

9. CAPT. SAMSON[3] HOWE (Abraham,[2] James[1]), born in Ipswich, Mass., 13 Nov. 1682; married 8 June 1709, ALICE PERLEY, daughter of John and Mary (Howlett) Perley of Boxford, Mass., born in 1680. They went to Killingly, Ct., in 1709 where he bought the place called by the Indians "Nashaway," between waters, a beautiful point of land at the junction of the Quinebaug and French rivers. The local records say "1709

Samson How executed a deed whereby he purchased 36 acres, and also 60 acres of land in Killingly of Richard Dresser." In the deed dated 4 July 1709, he styles himself of "Mashamoquet," afterwards Pomfret, Ct., although his name does not appear on the Pomfret Records. Family tradition says that he was a man of giant proportions, being six feet and seven inches in height. He joined the church in Woodstock, Ct., that being the only church in the neigborhood. In 1715 he assisted in the organization of the church in Killingly, now East Putnam. In 1730 he transferred his membership to the new church in Thompson Parish, Killingly. He was prominent in all the town and church affairs, was Town Clerk in 1723, was licensed to keep a house of public entertainment in 1726, and was elected representative to the General Assembly of Ct., 1726 to 1732. In 1730 he was commissioned captain of the first military company in Killingly. He lived in that part of the town known as the Thompson Parish, where he died 3 Feb. 1736, and was buried with military honors, the first funeral of that kind in that part of the country. His tombstone bears the oldest date found in the "old burying ground" in Thompson, Ct. "Here lies buried the body of Capt. Samson Howe who departed this life Feb. 3, 1736, aged 53 years. The Memory of the Just is blessed." His will, dated 24 Jan 1736, is recorded in the probate records at Willimantic, Ct., in which he mentions wife, Alice, sons, Perley and Samson, and daughter Alice. He left a large estate, including two negroes, valued at £200, one Leah, being devised to his son Samson, and the other, Ceaser, to his son Perley. He named his wife and his two sons as Executors of his estate. His widow Alice died 19 July 1746.

12. MARK[3] HOW (Abraham,[2] James[1]), born in Ipswich, Mass., 28 March 1695; married, 20 Dec. 1722, HEPZIBAH PERKINS, daughter of Timothy and Edna (Hazen) Perkins of Topsfield, baptized 12 Oct. 1701; she died 30 Jan. 1759. He married second, 11 Oct. 1759, MARGARET (COGSWELL) PERLEY, widow of Amos Perley, and daughter of Lt. John and Hannah (Goodhue) Cogswell; she died 1 Sept. 1762; he married third, 26 April 1763, MRS. ELIZABETH BRADSTREET, (a widow). He inherited the old homestead, as also the old Account Book. He seemed to have many of his father's traits as a genealogist and the preservation of important papers. He maintained the business of weaving, but on a much larger scale; he tilled his farm, and employed others to aid him; he worked himself and charged for "myself and ye Tumbril and the Stears." But his abilities had a wider scope.

"12 March 1745," Jabez Rose is "deter by five days work dividing Land among the children of Edward Neland, deceast, at Eight shilings a day."

"11 Nov. 1745," Capt. John Smith is charged: "By going to Salem for things for Abr[m] Smiths burial," and "by coppying Abr[m] Smiths Will."

In "July 1714" Samuel Potter was his debtor:

For wrighting his will 00,03,00,"
"by going to Town with ye Executors 00,02,00,"

"by wrighting a coppy of ye Will 00,01,00,"
"by 3 gallons Syder 00,02,00,"

The old Account Book, as also Town Records, show the births of his twelve children, as also the sad story of the misfortune that had befallen the family, when they lost eight of their children in the space of 23 days between Nov. 5th and the 28th 1736, of "cancre quinsy." Twenty three years had passed when the father made another entry to this long list:—
"16 June 1759, Philemon How died at Louisburg in ye armee with a violent fever."

By his own hand he is proved a considerate and liberal husband and father; also man-like, not self forgetting.

By the following itemized account, we may get a glimpse of the home life of the family in 1750-1754,— "Amos Jewet, Credit Old tenor."
"April 1750, by parts of two days making clothes for thaniel, 01,00,0 9 June 1750 by making a coat for me 02,05,0
Dec. 1750 by making three coats for the boys & cutting jackits, 03,10,0 11 Feb. 1750, by part of a day making a coat for Philemon 00,12,0
7 August 1751 by making a linin Jacket for me 01,00,0
3 Dec. 1751 by mending pare of leather Britches for me 00,06,0 20 Dec. 1751 by part of a day making leather britches for mark 00,08,0 8 Dec. 1752 by making a goun for Hephzibah 00,06,0 24 Nov. 1753 by making a goun for hanah gloves & cape 01,07,0"

In 1757 he paid to the Rev. George Lessie, minister and teacher;
"by Mark, six months Learning," 06,00,0
Two years before Mark How donned the "leather britches" he had paid "Thomas Lord of Ipswich, hatter,"
"for a castor hat" 07,00,0 and in 1754, Ebenezer Stanwood is credited, old tenor; by a Wigg, 08,00,0
Ten years later, and Ebenezer Stanwood is credited at a much advanced price; "A Wigg" 15,00,0

He was a deacon of the church, and on the 23 Sept. 1749, when he was sixty years old, "Mark How, Gentleman" was commissioned by Governor Shirley as Lieutenant of the First Company of Foot, in the regiment commanded by Colonel Thomas Berry.

"An account of Soldiers under Lt. Mark Hows Command that have inlisted into his Magesties Service under Capt. Herrick's Comman in the Defence of the North America, Michael Holegate, Mark How junr the fifteenth day of March 1755, Mark fisk, John Daniel, Ebenezer Davis, Jeremiah getchwel, under ye Command of Capt. Whipple of Ipswich, to Crown Point, 15 Sept. 1755, Allen Perley hired Nehemiah Abbot, his room to go to Crown Point under Capt. Isaac Smith which shall go to Crown Point under Capt. Isaac Smith which shall go for Perleys turn."

The career, active, useful, versatile, of Mark How continued for more than four score years,—as appears by the following entry in the family Record Book, therein made by Nathaniel How, son of Mark, "17 February 1770, deacon mark How died, being in the 84th year of his age." His will dated 6 March 1767, was proved 27 Feb. 1770, in which he mentioned his sons, Mark and Nathaniel, and his daughter Hepzibah. The records show the marriage of the "widow Elizabeth How" to Caleb Pool, 19 June 1779.

13. JAMES[4] HOWE (John,[3] James,[2] James[1]), born in Ipswich, Mass., 29 March 1694-5; married 8 Jan. 1722-3, HANNAH FAULKNER, of Andover, Mass., daughter of John and Sarah (Abbot) Faulkner, and grand-daughter of Edmund Faulkner, the "first settler of Andover," and Dorothy Robinson his wife. His father died when he was but little over two years of age, and his mother married 10 Jan. 1702, Ephraim Roberts of Haverhill, Mass., (a widower). In 1711 he chose his "father-in-law" Ephraim Roberts as his guardian. In Nov. 1717, he bought of Timothy Swan of Charlestown, Mass., and for "46 pounds amount of money of New England or Province bills of credit," about 100 acres of land in that section of Haverhill, set off a few years later as Methuen, the farm being near World's End Pond, on the present Howe Street, and is commonly known as "The Taylor Farm." His wife Hannah, died there 27 Dec. 1759. He married second, 28 Aug. 1760, MRS. ELIZABETH SWAN, widow of Robert Swan, and daughter of Jonathan Farnum of Andover, Mass. He lived in Methuen where he was a farmer, and a highly respetced citizen. He was chosen deacon of the church in 1732 and continued to hold position until his death, a period of thirty-nine years, then a special honor. He died there 22 Dec. 1771.

Perley[4] Howe (Sampson,[3] Abraham,[2] James[1]), born in Killingly, Conn., about 1710; married (int. 27 Sept. 1735) Damaris Cady, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Hosmer) Cady, baptized in Killingly 22 Sept. 1717. He graduated from Harvard College in 1731, ordained minister at Dudley, Mass., 12 June 1735, where he remained until 1744 or 45, when he moved to Killingly, Conn., where he died 10 March 1753. Family tradition says that he was in stature and strength equal to his father. His widow married second, 21 Nov. 1754, Rev. Aaron Brown, the successor of Rev. Perley Howe, as pastor. He died at Ashford, Conn., on the way home from the funeral of Rev. Joseph Howe 12 Sept. 1775. She died 4 Feb. 1776.

Children:

i. Rebecca,[5] b. in Dudley, Mass., 27 Aug. 1736.
ii. Alice, b. in Dudley, 21 Jan. 1737-8; d. 22 July 1741.
iii. Elizabeth, b. in Dudley, 1 May 1739; d. 21 July 1741.
iv. Elizabeth, b. in Dudley, 27 Feb. 1741.
30. v. Isaac Cady, b. in Dudley, 27 Feb. 1741.
31. vi. Perley, b. in Dudley, 3 Feb. 1742-3.
vii. Damaris, b. in Dudley, 9 Feb. 1744-5; m. 11 Feb. 1768, Timothy Holton.
viii. Joseph, b. in Killingly, Conn., 14 Jan. 1747. He graduated from Yale College in 1765. For a while he had charge of the public school in Hartford, Conn., and was afterward a tutor in Yale. He entered the ministry and was settled over the Old South Congregational Church in Boston. He was ordained at Hartford, 19 May 1773. In 1772 and 1773 he was a colleague of Dr. Lord in the ministry at Norwich, Conn. In 1773 he was again called to the Old South Church in Boston. In 1775 he left Boston and went to Norwich, Conn., but his health failed and he died 25 Aug. 1775. He was noted for his literary acquirements and for his remarkable powers of elocution. He was never married.

ix. REBECCA, b. 30 May 1749; d. 30 May 1769 (see G. S.).

32. x. SAMSON, b. 26 July 1751.

18. SAMSON[4] HOWE (Samson,[3] Abraham,[2] James[1]), born in Killingly, Ct., about 1711; married 29 Dec. 1737, SARAH SABIN, daughter of Hezekiah and Zeruiah Sabin, baptized 27 Sept. 1719, died in Middletown, Ct., 10 Aug. 1752. He married second, 5 April 1753, HANNAH FOOTE, daughter of Nathaniel and Ann (Clark) Foote of Colchester, Ct., born 17 April 1722. He moved to Middletown, about 1746. His name first appears on the records of that town, 22 Oct. 1746, and does not appear after 1755. From Middletown, Ct., he moved to Williamstown, Mass., about 1758, where he was an early settler and where he was known as "Lieut. Sampson." From there he moved to Williamstown, Vt., about 1788. The U. S. Census of 1790 shows that he was living there in 1790, and he died there about 1796. She died there 2 March 1803. The first four children were born in Killingly, Ct.

Children:

i. SAMSON,[5] b. 12 Oct. 1739; no further record.

Mass., and was noted for his skill in the treatment of the insane. The Provincial Congress on 14 June 1775, passed a resolution reciting that "Dr. How of Andover is prepared to receive insane patients and is well skilled in such disorders," and committing to his care Daniel Adams, a soldier in camp at Cambridge, Mass. It was probably Dr. Howe's reputation that influenced the selection of Andover as a place of retreat for the patriot James Otis after his mind had become deranged. He was probably twice married, as we find on records of Andover, the marriage of Dr. Daniel How and Susanna Tirrell of Abington, Mass., 5 March 1780. He died 1 Nov 1797, aged 78 years and 5 months.

He married second, 9 Dec. 1787, BETSEY REDINGTON, daughter of Isaac Redington of Haverhill; she died 14 Feb. 1803, aged 42 years. He married third, 15 Nov. 1803, SARAH WHITE, daughter of Samuel and Sarah (Brown) White, born 9 April 1757, died 13 Aug. 1831, aged 74 years. He was one of the "Minute men" who went to Cambridge on the "Lexington Alarm" and was in the battle of Bunker Hill. During the Revolutionary War he served as a private in Col. Paul Dudley's Regt. of the Mass. Line, and was in the battles of Harlem Heights and Trenton, and witnessed the surrender of Gen. Burgoyne's army. He was one of the guards who escorted the British prisoners across Massachusetts.

Throughout his military service he kept a diary, which together with a biographical sketch of the author, was published by Henry B. Dawson in 1865, noting the events of his army life in 1775 and 1777. While it is somewhat crude and meager, it is of great value for many reasons, and it is cited several times by Sir George Otto Trevelyan, Bart., in his "The American Revolution." The following extracts illustrate the character of the diary:—"Oct. 14, 1777. This morning we marched to Salletoga (Saratoga) with all the Regt. And at 10 o'clock the British Troops under the command of Gnrl Burgoin All Lay Down their Arams And marchd to our lines As prisoners of War. This afternoon we Drawd 4 Days provisions In Order for a march."

"(Nov.) 6. We marchd through Watertown and Cambridge, And marchd to Prospeck Hill (Somerville) and Left all the prisoners ,And ware all Dismissed. And we marched to Meneborny. Staid at Night."

"7. This morning we Set out for Home marchd through Whoburn & Wilminton And Andover & Got to Methuen at Night."

After the close of the war he settled in Haverhill, Mass., where he became a large land-owner and was engaged in general business, and was for many years prominently identified with public affairs and enterprises of the town of Haverhill. Died 10 Jan. 1842, aged 85 years.

In early life he moved with his parents to the western part of Massachusetts, and subsequently to Oneida Co., N. Y. In 1807 he removed to the town of Phelps where he had resided 54 years at the time of his death. In 1812 he was appointed Ensign of a company of infantry in Ontario Co., receiving his appointment from the Governor, Daniel D. Tompkins. He afterwards held in the same regiment, the office of Lieut., of Captain, and finally in 1825 he was appointed Lieut. Col. of the 71st Regiment of Infantry of N. Y. State Militia. In 1814 he served as Ensign and was stationed for some time at Ft. Erie. He was a wheelwright and carried on the business of wagon making. In 1828 he received an English paper, and in it he saw a cut of a velocipede. He studied on it and constructed one similar, and it is said it was the first velocipede ever made in this country. He rode around the village and the neighbors thought he had gone crazy, but he soon became disgusted with the excitement that he had caused, and he gave the wheel to his son Cady. Later he sold his farm, and bought a place in the village, where he died 31 Aug. 1861.

Carefully preserved among the family records, is a letter to his future father-in-law by Joseph Cady Howe, asking for his daughter Tabitha in marriage. The following is a copy:—

"Most respected Sir:—

After paying the warmest achnowledgments of Gratitud to you & your Lady for Civility and indulgence, These lines are to Solicit your - approbation and Consent in a manner wherein my future prospects of temporal felicity are most nearly Concerned. A subject perhaps, involving in it the present happiness or misery of your third daughter, permit me Sir to name it; Tabitha; It is that a treaty of Marriage may be entered upon and Concluded between myself and Miss Tabitha, the daughter I mentioned.

I need not inform you that I have neither Interest or Tallents to recommend me; but if the Sincerest affection, and most honorable intentions are qualifications that may come under consideration, these are not wanting, and as I cannot, I dare not pretend the former, I readily confess my dependence will be upon that Providence that feeds the fowls, and clothes the Grass. It is part of my Creed, that a mans life does not consist in the abundance which he possesses. That a dinner of herbs under Some Circumstances, are preferable to a Stalled ox under the reverse. My friends, permit me to call you by this endearing appellation, We most earnestly and humbly ask your Blessing, Councill and advice upon this important Subject. And waiting for your direction I take the liberty to Subscribe myself Your Most Obedt Humble Servant Joseph C. Howe.

Mr & Mrs Rhoades,

Chesterfield Octor. 27th A D 1792.

68. JOHN[6] HOWE (Perley,[5] Perley,[4] Samson,[3] Abraham,[2] James[1]), born in Killingly, Ct., 3 July 1783; married 7 Dec. 1806, LOUISA SMITH, daughter of Stephen Smith, and sister of Bishop Benjamin B. Smith of Kentucky, born 25 April 1789, and died 21 April 1834. His father, who was an ardent and active patriot of the Revolution, died while the son was a child, and his mother soon afterwards went to live in Bristol, R. I., her native town, where kindred of the DeWolf family resided. He pursued his early studies and prepared for college under the tuition of Abner Alden, for a long period a celebrated school-master in Bristol. Immediately after graduating from Brown University, he studied law in the office of Hon. Benjamin Bourne (afterwards one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island) and was admitted to the bar in 1808. He soon attained an extensive practice in the Courts of R. I., and in the courts of the adjacent counties of Massachusetts, and was distinguished as an advocate, for his fidelity to his clients and his skill in addressing a jury. He was also fond of literary studies and frequently discussed in the newspapers the public questions of the times. He also delivered several public orations. He was a representative from Bristol for a number of years in the General Assembly of the State, and was identified with many of the leading social interests of the town. In politics he was at the beginning of his career a Federalist, and after that party had passed away he was a Whig. In 1841, on the accession of President Harrison, he was appointed Collector of the port of Bristol, and continued in that office until the close of President Taylor's administration. This interruption of his professional practice virtually terminated his connection with the bar and he subsequently occupied himself with the care of his farm near Bristol. In 1853 he went to live in Philadelphia, with his son and only child, Rev. Mark Antony DeWolf Howe, D. D. of that city, returning to Bristol every year to spend the summer months. He was a member of the Episcopal church, having been confirmed in its communion about four years before his death, which occurred in Philadelphia, 14 March 1864, aged 90 years.

95. FISHER[7] HOWE (James,[6] James,[5] James,[4] John,[3] James,[2] James[1]), born in Rochester, N. H., 3 Sept. 1798; married 16 June 1825, MATILDA SALTONSTALL, daughter of Dr. Nathaniel and Anna (White) Saltonstall, born in Haverhill, Mass., 9 Dec. 1796, and died in Brooklyn, N. Y., 21 May 1831. He married second, 1 Oct. 1832, ELIZABETH LEAVITT, daughter of David and Maria Clarissa (Lewis) Leavitt, born in Bethlehem, Ct., 4 July 1815. She died at the home of her son at Princeton, N. J., 20 Sept. 1899. Mr. Howe's career in New York was begun in 1820, in partnership with his brother Calvin. After 1842 he was Treasurer and Business Manager of the Brooklyn Lead Company, a corporation established in 1825 by David Leavitt, (father of Mrs. Howe) and always controlled by his family. Mr. Howe was an organizer of the Association of American Manufacturers of White Lead, and was its President at the time of his death.

Mr. Howe was ever a zealous member of the Presbyterian Church, and was a ruling elder of that denomination for forty seven years, entering that office at the age of twenty six years, in the Brick Church, New York, of which Dr. Spring was pastor. He remained there seven years, when upon removal of his residence across the river to Brooklyn, he was elected to the same office in the First Presbyterian Church of that village, and continued in the service until his death.

Mr. Howe served as director of corporations, financial, civic and educational. He was a Founder in 1836, of the Union Theological Seminary of New York, and served as Director until the year of his death.

The years 1849 and 1850 were passed in travel in Europe, in Egypt and the Holy Land; those were days when tent life in the deserts, and the long journey from Jerusalem to Cairo was a very real adventure.

Mr. Howe, always a keen observer, always a diligent student of the Bible, published (New York, M. W. Dodd Co., 1854) the story of his experiences in the Near East, in a volume entitled "Oriental and Sacred Scenes." In 1871 and only a few months before his death, Mr. Howe published a small volume entitled "The True Site of Calvary." His argument, discussed with friends for many years, sought to prove that the Skull shaped hill, outside the walls of Jerusalem and nigh unto the Damascus Gate was the most probable place of the Crucifixion. Promptly Mr. Howe's theory met the hearty approval of biblical students of distinction, "and it was adopted by the late General Gordon" '("Egypt and Syria," Sir J. W. Dawson, London, 1887; 3d edition, 1892.)

For decades this "Site," 'with the legend attached, has been known—far and near—as "General Gordon's Calvary." This attribution emanated, we must believe, from some English source, unknowing of the truth. Ten or more years had passed after the publication of Mr. Howe's treatise before General Gordon ,that supremely gallant Soldier-knight, laid eyes upon "the Place of a Skull," at Jerusalem. Cold type is proof conclusive that Mr. Fisher Howe was the one who first gave out the orderly argument to establish what good men now believe is "The True Site of Calvary," ("Where was the Place called Calvary," in The Century Magazine, November, 1888.) He died at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., 7 Nov. 1871.

134. MARK ANTONY DEWOLF[7] HOWE (John,[6] Perley,[5] Perley,4 Samson,[3] Abraham,[2] James[1]), born in Bristol, R. I., 5 April 1809; married 16 Oct. 1833, JULIA BOWEN AMORY, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Bowen) Amory, born in Feb. 1804, and died 5 Feb. 1841. He married second, 17 June 1843, ELIZABETH SMITH, daughter of Rev. Herbert and Elizabeth (Smith) Marshall, born in Culpepper Co., Va., 25 Dec. 1822, died 5 Oct. 1855. He married third, 9 June 1857, ELIZA WHITNEY, daughter of Asa and Clarinda (Williams) Whitney of Philadelphia, Pa., born 25 Jan. 1826. He entered Middlebury College, Vt., where he stayed two years, then he left and entered the junior class at Brown University, and graduated in 1828. After his graduation he spent a few years in teaching, in the public schools of Boston and as a tutor in Latin at Brown University, and commenced studying for the ministry under the direction of the Rev. John Bristed. In Jan. 1832 he was ready to receive deacon's orders, administered by Bishop Griswold of the Eastern Diocese. After a brief term of service at St. Matthew's Church, South Boston, Mass., he became rector of the new parish of St. James, Roxbury, Mass. Except for a period of nine months, spent in charge of Christ Church, Cambridge, he retained the rectorship of the Roxbury parish until 1846, when he went to Philadelphia and assumed charge of St. Luke's Church, and for twenty six years he labored with his people with signal effect, and under his care the young parish soon became a vital power in the life of Philadelphia. Of his personal influence it is best to let one of his parishioners speak: "Strong in his convictions, but never arbitrary, deep in his realization of things divine and eternal, yet genial and humorous, never sad, but always sympathetic, dignified, but coming close to the hearts of his people—surely his was a rare nature, and one to leave its impress as it did, upon the high and low, rich and poor, in that large congregation."

But preaching and parish work were by no means the limits of his activities. In the counsels of the church at large he played an important part. Sent first in 1850 as a delegate to the General Convention, he held for the twelve following years the post of Secretary of the House of Deputies; was very active in committee work outside of the convention, and was delegated to travel through the north and west to speak for the cause of missions. Nor were literary labors wanting;

in the summer of 1870 he completed the Memoirs of the Life and Services of Rt. Rev. Alonzo Potter, D. D., L. L. D.

In 1871 he was elected bishop of the new diocese of Central Pennsylvania. The acceptance of this charge caused him to move his residence from Philadelphia, to Reading, Pa., where he remained till the last summer of his life. The work of organizing the new diocese might have overtaxed the strength of a younger man. Beginning at the age of sixty four, he spared himself through none but the last few years of his twenty three remaining years.

In the spring of 1895 he felt that the time had come to commit all this leadership to his successor. Accordingly he removed to his home, Weetamoe Farm at Bristol, R. I., where he died 31 July 1895. His widow died at Bristol, R. I., 1 July 1909, in her 83d year.

In 1859, Edward Howe, in company with his brother Leavitt, made his home upon a large farm in Princton, N. J., purchased by his father, and still in possession of the family.

In addition to scientific farming, Mr. Howe became a citizen of much local importance. Not a college graduate, he was devoted to the welfare of the local College, and rendered valuable service especially in quiet acquisition of lands then deemed essential for the future use and today occupied by academic buildings. In 1872 Mr. Howe became President of Princton Bank; he continued as its head until his death, a period of more than fifty years, "a unique condition in the history of the N. J., Banking Institutions," during which period the bank had become one of the strongest in the State. He was an organizer, and for a period, President of the Princeton Savings Bank. A founder in 1870, of the Jersey Cattle Club, he lived to be the sole survivor of the original association of breeders of high grade cattle.

He was known as "The Father of Bay Head" a well known resort at the head of Barnegat Bay. The settlement begun on barren shore lands in 1871, stands as a monument recording the foresight, patience and unquenchable courage of Edward Howe. He died at his home 30 Oct. 1923.

i. JAMES,[10] b. in Litchfield, Conn., 16 July 1864; died in the service of U. S. at Manila, P. I. He was of the tenth generation, and of the ninth in direct descent to bear the patronymic distinctive of this branch of the Howe Family. It is well here to make permanent record of the fact that the long and untarnished succession has ended in service and in honor. "His boyhood and early manhood were passed in Brooklyn and in Litchfield, Conn. Coming to Omaha, in 1887, he held at first a position in the auditor's office of the Burlington road. This he soon exchanged for the more responsible one of paying teller in the Omaha Savings Bank, with which he remained until 1898. In July of that year, as quarter-master's clerk, he sailed on a government transport to Manila. In that place and in that lonely land he died," 2 Feb. 1901. "It may be truthfully said of James How that no young man more than he won and retained the affection of friends, young and old alike."

ABRAHAM HOW

OF WATERTOWN AND MARLBOROUGH, MASS.

The same difficulty is found in tracing the ancestry and relationship of this branch of the Howe family, that is found in endeavoring to trace the origin of some of the other Howes in this country.

It is not known that this Abraham How was related to any of his contemporaries of the name in this country, nor has anything been discovered indicating the name or origin of his father. It is not known when nor where he came from to this country; there is a tradition among some of his descendants, that he came from Devonshire, England. Of this we have no proof.

The first mention of this Abraham How in this country, seems to be found on the town records of Watertown, Mass., where the marriage of Abraham How to Hannah Ward, daughter of William and Elizabeth Ward, occurred 26 March 1657. He probably lived there until 1661, when he moved to Marlborough, where his name appeared among the Proprietors of Marlborough as early as 1660, and he participated in the first division of lands in that town, and there he passed the remainder of his life. The only hint that we have ever found, that he had any relatives in this country, is in his Will, where he mentions John Barns senr. as "my loving kinsman," but it gives us no light as to what degree of kinship it might be. He seems to have been one of the prominent citizens of the town, as in 1694, he kept the Inn at which the Commissioers of Massachusetts Colony lodged the first night of their journey on their way to treat with the Mohawks.

In 1664 he was one of the petitioners to the General Court, to appoint a committee with full power to settle the differences that the town had gotten into over their internal affairs, and was active in the defense of the town against the Indians in Oct. 1675. Although Abraham and John How both settled in Marlborough, and were near neighbors, they were not related to each other so far as is known; there have been many intermarriages between their descendants, and in this way the two families have become closely allied. Apparently he was a well to do citizen, as is shown by his Will. He died 30 Jan. 1695. His widow died 3 Nov. 1717, aged 78 years.

COPY OF THE WILL OF ABRAHAM HOW.

I Abraham How of Marlburrough, in the County of Middlesex, in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, in New England. Farmer, being of intire understanding, but sensible of my approaching death, by reason of my great age, do make and ordain my last Will and Testament in manner and form following, viz. After the resignation of myself unto my most merciful God, on whose trust and richest grace, I hope for a part in the glory of the third heaven.

I give and bequeath unto Hannah my loving wife to be to her use and at her disposal and her own property, all my monies and household stuff, particularly my furnates, together with all Sheep Swine and Neat Cattle which I have, except one pair of Steers and one Cow, Likewise my said wife shall have to her own use (during her natural life) which of the Two first rooms she shall choose at either end of my now dwelling house together with the free use of the Ovens and Cellar of my said house, as she shall need, and all rent free.

Item, I give unto Hannah my wife and to her heirs and assigns forever, all my right and claim unto all uplands meadows and swamps, lying in the Six Thousands Acres of land lately purchased of the Indians, situated Northward of and near to Marlburroughe aforesaid.

To my Eldest son Daniel How, I give and bequeath all my now dwelling house and Out houses, and all those acres of my Houselot or Homestead adjoining to my said House which are yet undisposed of together with my whole Town right in Marlburrough aforesaid, for Firewood, Timber and food of Cattle, proportionable unto the five and twenty acres of my houselot granted me by the Proprietors of said Marlburrough.

Item, I give unto my said son Daniel all the Meadows now belonging unto my said houselot, as the said meadows are now devided and distinguished betwixt my said son Daniel and my son Abraham How. And I give said son Daniel How all my right unto a Third Division of Upland in said Marlburrough consisting of fifty acres more or less not yet laid out, together with all my right which or ought to have in any division or divisions of land which Shall hereafter be made by the Proprietors of said Marlburrough, in their lands as yet undevided, According to the full proportion of my hous lot of five and twenty acres. All these formentioned houses land and rights which I have given and bequeathed unto my said son Daniel How, shall be to himself and to his heirs and assigns forever.

Item, I give unto my said son Daniel all my Tacklings and Utensils for Weaving; And my Will is that my said son Daniel How shall well and carefully maintain Hannah my wife his mother immediately after my death with all necessaries and conveniences at his own proper charge for her comfort both in sickness and in health, during the natural life of his said mother, the said Daniel keeping or causing to be kept one milch cow, for her own use and long as his said mother shall desire the same.

To my son Joseph How and to his heirs and assigns forever, I have already given as his portion in full from mee a certain messuage ly next adjoining to my said houselot in Marlburrough the said messuage containing Eighteen acres of land more or less in one entire piece Northward from my now dwelling house together with one dwelling hous there upon situated as more fully appears in a deed of Gift by mee given to said son Joseph How dated the twenty third day of May in the year of our Lord One thousand six hundred ninety four.

To my son Abraham How I have already given Eleven Pounds toward his purchasing the messuage forementioned of his brother Joseph How, and I give my said son Abraham How Twenty Nine Pounds more in money toward the completment of the said purchas.

Item, To my said son Abraham I bequeath the two Steers and the Cow above in this my Will excepted from the rest of my Cattle Also I bequeath unto my said son Abraham All my furnisher and instruments for Husbandry, which I have not yet disposed of, But my nineteen Iron rings to ty up Cattle with, all I give unto my abovesaid son Daniel.

Item, To my said son Abraham I give my Musquet and my Sword, by my fowling gun shall be at the disposal of my wife, and my Will is that my said son Abraham How shall pay or cause to be paid unto Hannah my wife, his mother during her natural life Twenty shillings money a year, from year to year.

To each of my five daughters already married I give forty shillings and no more because they have already had of mee the Bulk of their portions, viz, Mary wife of John Bouker, Hannah wife of Eleazer How, Elizabeth wife of Samuel Brigham, Deborah wife of John Barret Jr. Rebecca wife of Peter Rice, The said forty shillings shall be paid unto each of my now married daughters here named in such household goods as my wife shall be best able to spare, within one year after my decease. Unto my two other daughters namely; Sarah How and Abigail How I give portions which shall be for kinds and quantity equal unto two of their forenamed sisters.

I appoint Hannah my loving wife Executrix, and my son Daniel How Executor of this my last Will and Testament, And I desire my loving brother in law Capt. Henry Kerley and my loving Kinsman John Barns senr. to be the Overseers of this my Will.

Witness my hand and Seal this twenty fourth day of May in the year of our Lord Christ One thousand six hundred ninety and four. Anno Quinto Regni Regis and Regina Super Anglian Guilielmi and Maria.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. DANIEL[2] HOWE (Abraham[1]), is supposed to have been born in Watertown, Mass., about 1658; he married 6 Oct. 1686, ELIZABETH KERLEY, daughter of Capt. Henry and Elizabeth (White) Kerley. They lived in Marlborough, where he became one of the leading citizens of the town. It is related of him, that on the 16th day of August 1707, while at work with Jonathan Wilder, in a meadow in the westerly part of the town, known as Milham, some two miles or more from his home, they were surprised by a party of Indians, (thirteen in number) who took them captive, and bound them with birch withes. Taking Wilder with them, they left Howe with one Indian to guard him, while they went farther on, intending to take Howe with them on their return. Howe managed to work his hands free, and watching his chance, he seized the Indian's gun, before the savage was aware of what he was doing, whereupon the Indian fled. Howe immediately returned to his home and gave the alarm. The townspeople speedily raised about twenty men, and went in pursuit of the savages. Following their trail, they caught up with them in that part of Lancaster, now Sterling, where a fight ensued, in which several of the Indians were killed. (Wilder the captive was killed by the savages as soon as the attack was made;) the remainder of the Indians fled leaving their packs on the ground. The party then returned to Marlborough. He was one of the Board of Selectmen for several years, was a large landholder in the town, and died 26 April 1718. His widow administered to his estate, which was inventoried as 1264 pounds sterling. She died in 1735.

Children born in Marlborough:

i. MARTHA,[3] b. 13 July 1687; m. in Boston, 6 May 1714, Nahum Ward, son of William and Hannah (Brigham) Ward, b. in Marlborough, 18 Dec. 1684. He is said to have been a sea faring man in his early life. They lived in Marlborough a few years, then moved to the then new town of Shrewsbury, where he became a very prominent man, a Colonel in the militia, Justice of the Peace, and a Representative to the General Court, and held various town offices. He d. 7 May 1754; she d. 1 July 1755. Previous to her marriage with Col. Ward, she had one daughter by Benjamin Hutchins, who was killed by the Indians 31 July 1704.

Children:

15. ICHABOD[4] HOWE (Jonathan,[3] Daniel,[2] Abraham[1]), was born in Marlborough, Mass., 9 Jan. 1731; married SARAH ———, (ancestry unknown.) They lived a few years in New Ipswich, N. H., where their first two children were born. About 1765 they moved to what is now the town of Winthrop, Me. He was one of the earliest settlers of that town, and was one of the best educated and ablest of his early associates in that vicinity. He selected for his farm a tract of land bordering on the shores of Lake Annabescook, that was considered one of the best in the neighborhood. His dwelling was located on a slight elevation about seventy rods from the lake, a two story affair, and of the style common to those of the "well to do," and was standing a few years ago. When the town was incorporated in 1771, he was elected one of the Selectmen, which office he held for a number of years; he was Town Clerk four years, and was the first Delegate to the Provincial Congress held at Concord, Mass., and the same day he was elected captain of the town military company, then organized in anticipation of the war, and in 1777 he was elected Representative to the General Court. He was an ardent patriot, and was in the active service during the Revolution; he was frequently Moderator of the Town Meetings, and was Chairman of the Committee of Correspondence and Safety. In addition to his public life, and his farm work, he was known as an expert hunter, in consequence of which, he was familiar with surrounding country, and was frequently called upon to give his knowledge in land cases. He died in Winthrop, 16 Jan. 1810, and was buried in the old cemetery at Winthrop.

FIFTH GENERATION.

29. JONATHAN[5] HOWE (Benjamin,[4] Hezekiah,[3] Daniel,[2] Abraham[1]), was born in Westborough, Mass., 29 May 1739; married 20 Nov. 1759, LYDIA MAYNARD, daughter of James and Mary (Morse) Maynard, born in Westborough, 8 Dec. 1739. They lived in Westborough a few years, then moved to Hubbardston, Mass., where they had the birth of one child recorded. They are supposed to have moved to Vermont, but of this we have no proof, and we find no further account of the family.

Children:

i. WALTER,[6] b. in Westborough, 5 Sept. 1760. There was a Walter Howe from Westborough, in the service in the Revolution. This may be the same.
ii. LYDIA, b. in Westborough, 13 March 1767; no further account.
iii. FANIRA, b. in Hubbardston, 17 June 1771; no further account.

30. DANIEL[5] HOWE (Solomon,[4] Jonathan,[3] Daniel,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Marlborough, Mass., 13 June 1740; married 26 Aug. 1761, BRIDGET SMITH, daughter of William and Abiel (Triscott) Smith, born in Mansfield, Ct., 16 April 1745, died 20 March 1815. He settled in Mansfield, Ct., where he died 7 Dec. 1806. His will dated 14 Feb. 1799, mentions his wife Bridget, and sons Daniel and Edmund, and his granddaughter Sophia. He appointed his wife Bridget as executrix, and his son Daniel as executor of his Will.

Children born in Mansfield:

71. i. DANIEL,[6] b. 26 March 1774.
72. ii. EDMUND, b. 25 April 1781.

31. ZADOCK[5] HOWE (Solomon,[4] Jonathan,[3] Daniel,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Marlborough, Mass., 3 June 1742; married ABIGAIL ———, she died in Bolton, Ct., 4 Jan. 1764, aged 24 years; he married second, 17 Nov. 1768, RACHEL KING, (ancestry not given), she died previous to 1794; he married third, MRS. MARY PETTEE, widow of Stephen Pettee of Foxboro, Mass. (int. 6 April 1794.) He lived in Vernon, Ct., where we find on the Church records, that Zadoc Howe and wife owned the covenant 21 Jan. 1770, and that his wife Rachel joined the church in Vernon, 9 June 1892, and we infer that she died soon after, and that he then moved to Mansfield, Mass., where he spent the remainder of his life. Heitman's Historical Register, Officers of the Continental Army, gives the following record of Lt. Zadock Howe: "Zadock Howe private in Lexington Alarm, Apr. 1775, and in 4th Conn., from May 24 to Dec. 28, 1775; 1st Lieut. Sherburne's Additional Continental Regiment, Apr. 14, 1777; resigned Apr. 5, 1780; died 7 Nov. 1819."

In the cemetery at Foxboro, Mass., there is a monument erected to the memory of Zadock Howe, bearing this inscription: "This monument was erected by Dr. H. Miller to the memory of his friend Mr. Zadock Howe who died 1819, and who fought under the great Washington." He was a pensioner 1818.

iii. ZADOCK, bapt. in Vernon, Conn., 15 Feb. 1777. He graduated from the Medical Department of Dartmouth College in 1809, and began the practice of his profession in Concord, N. H., where he soon became distinguished. In 1814 he removed to Franklin, Mass., becoming partner with Dr. Nathaniel Miller in an infirmary, which was not successful. After a few months in Boston he moved to Billerica, Mass., in the autumn of 1816, and spent his life in the town, useful, eminent and beloved. A good account of this benefactor of Billerica, may be found in the Address delivered by Mr. Whitman at the dedication of the Academy in 1852, and published with the third catalogue of the Howe School in 1872. He was President of the Massachusetts Medical Society at one time. He died in Billerica, 8 March 1851, and by his will he endowed the Howe School in Billerica. In his will he mentions brother Solomon, living in Alexandria, N. Y., children of his deceased brother Willis Howe, and children of deceased sister Sally Smith, living in New York State, and children of brother Solomon. He was never married.

99. Rufus[6] Howe (Daniel,[5] Joseph,[4] Joseph,[3] Joseph,[2] Abraham[1]), born in Lancaster, N. H., 9 Nov. 1799. There is a strong probability that this Rufus Howe is the same Rufus Howe that settled in Consecon, Prince Edwards Co., Ontario. From the information that was sent in by Rufus Howe of that town in 1871, he reports that he was born in New Hampshire in 1798, and we find that there was no other Rufus Howe that was born in that state about that time, and the names of his children would indicate a probable relationship, therefore we are accepting the record as being from Rufus Howe, son of Daniel and Eunice (Bucknam) Howe. He married in 1820, Eliz,-beth Anderson, daughter of William and Elizabeth Anderson of Consecon, born in New York, about 1797. They lived in Consecon, Ontario.

EDWARD HOWE

OF LYNN, MASS.

From Hotten's List of the Early Emigrants, we learn that Edward How with his wife and five children, embarked on the "Truelove" for New England on the 19th of Sept. 1635. The names and ages as they appear on the above list, are as follows, viz:—Edward How, husbandman, aged 60, Elizabeth, aged 50, Jeremie, aged 21, Sara, aged 12, Ephraim, aged 9, Isaac, aged 7, Wm., aged 6. On reaching this country, they settled at what is now known as Lynn, Mass. He was admitted freeman 8 Dec. 1636. Evidently he was a man of much ability, of good report, and a highly respected citizen. He was chosen deputy to the General Court in 1638, and in the same year, his name appeared on the list of land-owners in Lynn, as having 210 acres.

He died very suddenly in April 1639, and his widow was appointed by the General Court to administer his estate on 22 May 1639.

His death is mentioned in Winthrop's History of New England, p. 355, as follows: "One Mr. Howe of Lynn, a godly man, and a deputy of the last general court, after the court was ended, and he had dined, being in health as he used to be, went to pass over to Charlestown, and being alone, he was presently after found upon the strand, being there (as it seemed) waiting for the boat, which came soon after."

Concerning his ancestry, we have but little information. There has long been a tradition in the family that he came from London, Eng., and there seems to be a probability that the tradition may have some foundation.

It is certain that there were Howes in Lynn previous to 1635, but of whom we have very little information. Capt. Daniel Howe (who has been supposed by some, to have been a brother) was in Lynn, as early as 1630, only two years after the settlement of Boston and Salem, and there was an Ephraim and an Edward Howe in Lynn about the same time. From the Court records we learn there was an Edward Howe who was fined for the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors in Lynn, in 1633.

Lewis and Newhall (History of Lynn) supposed him to be identical with the Edward who came in the "Truelove," but we find nothing to confirm the supposition, nor do we find any record as to what became of him.

Much of the information that we have concerning the Howe families of Lynn, seems to be vague traditions and supposition, and it is largely owing to the fact that the records of Lynn, for the first sixty years are missing.

We have the names of six children, but there were probably others.

Children:

2. i. JEREMIAH,[2] b. in England, about 1614.
3. ii. JOSEPH, b. in England.
iii. SARAH, b. in England, about 1623; no further record.
4. iv. EPHRAIM, b. in England, about 1626.
5. v. ISAAC, b. in England, about 1628.
6. vi. WILLIAM, b. in England, about 1629.

SECOND GENERATION.

2. JEREMIAH[2] HOWE (Edward[1]), was born in England about 1614; came to this country with his father in the "Truelove" in 1635, being at that time 21 years of age. It is quite certain that he lived in Lynn a few years. He probably moved from Lynn to New Haven, Ct., as early as 1644. He married ELIZABETH ———, (ancestry unknown). The records of New Haven show that he was a lot owner there in 1643, and also that he took the oath of fidelity 2 May 1647. He was dismissed from the church in Lynn in 1645, and in the same year his name appears as one of the members of Centre Church in New Haven. He probably kept a public inn, for he was licensed "to sell strong water by pints or quarts." (New Haven Col. Records 1638-1640, p. 94, 140, 368). He and his brother Ephraim afterwards settled in Wallingford, Ct. His name and the names of his sons Zachariah and Nathaniel, are found among those of the first settlers, proprietors and taxpayers of Wallingford. (Davis' History of Wallingford, Ct., p. 78, 85-6). His will dated 11-15-1677, is recorded in New Haven probate Records, Vol. 2, p. 77. In this will it is recited that he is a mariner and is about to sail for the Barbadoes, and he leaves everything to his wife Eliza. (Elizabeth). Appended to the will is the following: "We whose names are underwritten do hereby signify and declare that we are fully satisfied." (Signed)

Zachary How.
Nathaniel How.
Jeremiah How.
Joseph How.

The will of Elizabeth How bearing date of 11-19-1690, is also of record in the New Haven Probate Records, in which she mentioned her sons Zachariah, Nathaniel, Jeremy, Joseph, and John, and her grand-child "Lidia," probably Lydia, daughter of her son Nathaniel, born 6 Nov. 1675. In the will her son John is named as Executor. The same records show that "widow Eliz'h died 1-23-1695-6. It would seem, therefore, to be quite reasonable to say Jeremiah had two children, Zachariah and Nathaniel, born (probably in Lynn) before he went to New Haven. He died in New Haven 11-16-1690-1 (16 Jan. 1690-1).

Children:

7. i. ZACHARIAH,[3] b. probably in Lynn.
8. ii. NATHANIEL, b. probably in Lynn.
iii. ELIZABETH, bapt. in New Haven, Conn., 30 March 1645; m. in May 1669, James Redfield, son of William and Rebecca Redfield, b. 1644, and d. 1723. She d. previous to 1690.
Children:
1. Elizabeth, b. in New Haven, 31 May 1670.
2. Sarah, b. about 1673; m. Daniel Frost.
3. Theophilus, b. about 1682; m. 24 Dec. 1706. Priscilla Grinnell.

iv. BATHSHEBA, b. in New Haven, 15 May 1648; m. 23 Oct. 1677, John Dixwell the regicide, under the name of James Davids, as his third wife; he d. in New Haven, 18 March 1688-9. She d. 27 Dec. 1729, aged 81 years.

Children born in New Haven:

1. Mary, b. 9 June 1679.
2. John, b. 6 March 1680.
3. Elizabeth, b. 14 July 1682.

9. v. JEREMIAH, b. in New Haven, 8 July 1650.

vi. JOSEPH, b. in New Haven, 22 Oct. 1653; d. about 1703. An inventory of his estate was taken in Aug. 1703, which amounted to 153 pounds sterling.

10. vii. JOHN, b. in New Haven, 26 June 1656.

viii. EBENEZER, b. in New Haven, 26 June 1656; not mentioned in his mother's will.

3. JOSEPH[2] HOW (Edward[1]), probably born in England. While we have no absolute proof, it would seem to be quite probable that this Joseph How was the son of Edward How of Lynn, and that he came to this country at a later date. He was in Lynn as early as 1640, and married ELIZABETH NEEDHAM, daughter of Edmund Needham of Lynn. This was proven by his will, and the will of Edmund Needham. We learn from the records of the Salem Quarterly Court, 25-11-1641, that Joseph How agreed to go to sea. "We were the first boat that went out, and had the first of fishing. Then other boats went, but the fourth had little or no employment." John Stone, Wm. Harper, Jeremiah Howe (probably his brother), Francis Perry and Joseph Pope also deposed. His widow married second, Samuel Hart.

The mother mentioned below was probably the widow of Edward How of Lynn.

An Inventory of his estate was taken 8-1-1650-1, and amounted to £107-10-8.

In a deed from her to her son Samuel Chadwell, made in 1714, and recorded in the Register of Deeds of Essex Co. She is described as "ye only child of Joseph How of Lynn."

4. EPHRAIM[2] HOW (Edward[1]), was probably born in London, Eng., about 1625 or 1626; he married ANNE HAUGH, who was born in Bristol, Eng., in 1630. He came to this country with his father in the "Truelove" in 1635, his age being given as 9 years. He was located in New Haven, Ct., as early as 1653, and was a mariner engaged in trade between Boston and Salem On one of his trips in 1676, he was taken with a severe sickness. Then his vessel (a small ketch containing himself, two of his sons, and three others) was driven out to sea by adverse winds. His two sons and another of his companions died. Then the vessel was wrecked; he and his two surviving companions were cast upon a desolate island near Cape Sable. There his two companions died. Finally after having been seven months upon the island, he was rescued and restored to his family, who had given him up for lost. His unprecedented misfortunes and sufferings were thought worthy of mention by Hubbard in his History of New England, and by Cotton Mather in his Magnalia (Vol. 2, pp. 343-345. A very elaborate and doleful account of them (said to have been written by the poet Percival) is contained in the "Mariner's Chronicle" published at New Haven in 1834. See also Essex Antiquarian, Vol. 2.

He died 8 Sept. 1680; and an inventory of his estate was recorded 30 Dec. 1680 in the New Haven Probate Records, Vol. 1, p. 185, and amounted to 218 pounds. "Jere How" (probably his brother) was one of the appraisers. His widow died about 1711, her estate being given in, as insolvent, 28 Jan. 1711-2.

Children born in New Haven:

11. i. EPHRAIM,[3] b. 3 April 1653.
ii. SARAH, b. 25 Jan. 1654; m. 10 Aug. 1682, Nathaniel Tuttle

5. ISAAC[2] HOWE (Edward[1]), was probably born in London, Eng., about 1628. He probably lived with his mother several years. We find him in Lynn as late as 1649. He probably married in Lynn, but the name of his wife is unknown, and so far, we have no data concerning his early life, but it is quite probable that he was the Isaac Howe who settled at Greenwich, Ct., about 1686. According to the Greenwich Town Records, we find that a three acre lot was laid out to Isaac Howe, 26 Feb. 1686. It is quite probable that he had a family prior to that date, of which we find no record, and thus far we have the name of one child, but it is quite probable that there were others.

Child:

13. i. NATHANIEL.[3]

6. WILLIAM[2] HOWE (Edward[1]), born in England, about 1629, came to this country with his father, in the "Truelove" in 1635; as he was only 10 years of age when his father died, he probably lived with his mother in Lynn until he was married. According to Farmer, he was in Dorchester in 1641, but we find but little record or proof of that statement, and Savage doubts if he ever was in Dorchester, but supposed him to be of Concord, Mass., where we find him with his wife Mary. We have no information where he came from to Concord, nor have we any information regarding the ancestry of his wife Mary. They appeared in Concord as early as 1657, and perhaps earlier. It has been supposed that he came with wife Mary from Chelmsford to Concord. His oldest son was born in 1654, but we fail to find a record of his birth on the Concord Records ,and he may have been born previous to coming to Concord. William How appears to have been a farmer, and died in Concord, although the records do not give the date of his death. An inventory of his estate was taken 26 April 1676, amounting to £35-01-10, and his widow was granted letters of administration 20 June 1676. She probably married second, 10 April 1677, Christopher Woolie of Concord, as his second wife. She died 26 Dec. 1695.

Children:

14. i. SAMUEL,[3] b. 14 Oct. 1654.
ii. DANIEL, b. ———; d. 4 June 1657.
iii. SARAH, b. 17 July 1658; d. 21 Jan. 1659.
iv. HANNAH, b. 3 Dec. 1660; d. 24 Nov. 1683.
v. WILLIAM, b. 25 Jan. 1663; d. 1 Feb. 1663.
vi. MARY, b. 19 July 1665; d. 16 Oct. 1666.

THIRD GENERATION.

7. ZACHARIAH[3] HOWE (Jeremiah,[2] Edward[1]), was probably born in Lynn, Mass., but no date of birth is given. As a child he went to New Haven, with his father, and he took the oath of fidelity in New Haven, 1 May 1660. (New Haven Col. Records, 1638-1649, p. 141). He married 22 March 1667, SARAH GILBERT, (ancestry unknown). They lived a few years in New Haven, but about 1672 they moved to Wallingford, Ct., where he died in June 1703. An inventory of his estate was filed in the Probate Court at New Haven, 12 Aug. 1703, which amounted to 183 pounds. His widow died in Wallingford, 22 Sept. 1740.

Children:

15. i. JOHN,[4] b. 21 Dec. 1667.
16. ii. ZACHARIAH, b. 31 March 1670.
17. iii. NATHANIEL, b. 2 Jan. 1672.
18. iv. MATTHEW, b. 2 Jan. 1672.
    v. SARAH, b. 30 Oct. 1675; m. 9 July 1702, Nathaniel Curtis who was baptized in New Haven, 29 Feb. 1652, "of Branford Church." He probably lived awhile in Wallingford, then moved to Woodbury, Conn., where they joined the church 12 May 1695. He d. there 20 Aug. 1721. She d. in Nov. 1743.
    vi. MARY, b. 14 Dec. 1677.

8. NATHANIEL[3] HOWE (Jeremiah,[2] Edward[1]), was probably born in Lynn, Mass., prior to 1645; married ELIZABETH CURTIS, daughter of Richard and Elizabeth Curtis of Dorchester, Mass., who had moved from Dorchester to Wallingford, Ct. She was born in Dorchester, 17 July 1643, and died in Wallingford, Ct., 29 Dec. 1713, aged 70 years. He married second, 9 Aug. 1714, MRS. SARAH CURTIS, widow of Isaac Curtis, (son of Richard and Sarah Curtis) and daughter of Lt. Robert and Sarah (Potter) Foot of Branford, Ct. He was one of the Proprietors of Wallingford, Ct., in 1670, and settled there in 1672. He died in Wallingford, 12 Feb. 1722.

Children:

    i. ELIZABETH,[4] b. in New Haven, 27 July 1666; m. 15 March 1684, John Martin.
    ii. A SON, b. in New Haven, 20 Sept. 1669.
    iii. A SON, b. in New Haven, in July 1671.
19. iv. ELIJAH, b. in Wallingford, 9 Sept. 1673.
    v. LYDIA, b. in Wallingford, 6 Nov. 1675.
20. vi. DANIEL, b. in Wallingford, 18 March 1677.
    vii. ABIGAIL, b. in Wallingford, 7 Aug. 1680; m. 2 Dec. 1702, Thomas Twiss.

Children:

1. Berrill, b. 10 Jan. 1703.

9. JEREMIAH[3] HOWE (Jeremiah,[2] Edward[1]), born in New Haven, Ct., 8 July 1650; married 29 Oct. 1674, ELIZABETH PECK, daughter of Paul and Martha Peck of Hartford, Ct.; she died, and he married second, 17 Dec. 1701, ELIZABETH CULVER, who died 17 June 1703. He married third, 9 April 1705, WIDOW MARY COOK. They lived in Wallingford, where he was a farmer, and where he died 22 Sept. 1740.

Children born in Wallingford:

21. i. JEREMIAH,[4] b. 15 Sept. 1675.
ii. BATHSHEBA, b. 13 Sept. 1677; m. in Aug. 1698, John Stow; m. 2nd Daniel Hubbard.
iii. EPHRAIM, b. 20 Feb. 1681.
iv. MATHEW, b. 2 Aug. 1684.
v. MARI, b. 22 Sept. 1687; probably the Mary who m. John Allyn of Middletown, Conn.
vi. EBENEZER, b. 3 March 1690.

By second wife:

22. vii. JOSHUA, b. 2 Dec. 1702.

By third wife:

viii. SARAH, b. 16 April 1709 (?).

10. JOHN[3] HOWE (Jeremiah,[2] Edward[1]), born in New Haven, Ct., 26 June 1656; married rather late in life, 5 April 1714, LYDIA SEWARD, daughter of Caleb and Lydia Seward, born 22 May 1689: In 1695 he with others, was given permission to take up a field of forty acres at Daton's Hill, and improve the same for corn. He lived in New Haven at the time of his marriage, but soon after he appears to have lived in Durham, Ct. In 1720 he sold land at Daton's Hill (see New Haven Town Records, Vol. 6, p. 416). According to some of his descendants, he was born in London, Eng., but the records of New Haven disprove the tradition. (They seem to have got mixed in the generation, as without doubt, his father was born in England.) He is said to have died in his 95th year, which if true, would make the year of his death about 1750. His wife died at the age of 46.

Children probably born in Durham:

i. JOHN,[4] b. in Durham, Conn., 24 Dec. 1714; died at the age of 27 years, unm.
ii. LYDIA, b. 23 March 1717; probably m. Daniel Moulthrop.
iii. NAOMI, b. 20 April 1720; m. Giles Porter of Haddam, Conn.
iv. BATHSHEBA, b. 20 April 1720; m. Jeremiah Griswold.
v. RUTH, b. (no date given); m. Nathan Brister of Guilford, Conn.

23. vi. EPHRAIM, b. in April 1730.

11. EPHRAIM[3] HOWE (Ephriam,[2] Edward[1]), born in New Haven, Ct. 3 April 1653; married (name not given). He was a mariner, and sailed with his father. He was lost at sea in 1676.

Child:

i. RUTH,[4] b. (no date given); m. 18 Oct. 1711, David Tuttle, son of Simon Tuttle of Wallingford, b. 11 Nov. 1680.

12. DANIEL[3] HOWE (Ephraim,[2] Edward[1]), born in New Haven, Ct., 4 Jan. 1663; married MARGARET ———. He was a sea faring man, and is said to have died at Surinam, S. A., in June 1705. His widow died prior to 28 Nov. 1723, as on that date, the Wallingford Probate Records (Vol. 5, p. 158) show that there were four children of Margaret How, deceased, then living.

Children:

i. DANIEL.[4]
ii. ELIZABETH, wife of Thomas Gilbert.
iii. LOIS, wife of Caleb Clark (m. 19 Aug. 1722).
iv. DELIVERANCE, wife of Gershom Beach (m. 26 Dec. 1721), son of Thomas and Phebe (Wilkinson) Beach, b. 23 May 1697; d. in Nov. 1729.

Children:

1. Ruth, b. 11 Aug. 1722.
2. Joanna, b. 24 Sept. 1724.
3. Aaron, b. 23 March 1727.
4. Gershom, b. 24 Sept. 1729.

13. NATHANIEL[3] HOWE (Isaac,[2] Edward[1]), was probably born in Lynn as early as 1650; the name of his wife is not definitely known, but she is supposed to have been a sister of John Bowers, who was a resident of Greenwich at that time. Prior to the time that he came to Greenwich he had probably lived in New Haven, Mr. Frank Farnsworth Starr of Middletown, Ct., in a letter written 9 Dec. 1907, says "The town records of Greenwich, Ct., show that a Nathaniel Howe was a resident of that town in 1686." The records of the Fairfield probate district, which at that date included the town of Greenwich, show that he died 29 June 1692, and that an inventory of his estate was taken on the 25th of the next month. His children were probably born in New Haven; we have the names of only two, but there were probably others.

Children:

24. i. ISAAC,[4] probably born about 1669-72.
25. ii. JOHN, probably born between 1675 and 1685.

14. SAMUEL[3] HOWE (William,[2] Edward[1]), born 14 Oct. 1654; married 27 March 1673, MARY WOOLIE of Concord, Mass., probably daughter of Christopher Woolie. She died 19 Dec. 1677; he married second, 26 March 1678, MARY NUTTING, daughter of John and Sarah (Eggleston) Nutting, born in Chelmsford Mass., 16 Jan. 1656. After the death of his first wife, he placed his daughter Mary with a family by the name of Goble, where she afterwards lived until she was married. As will be seen, he had another daughter Mary by his second wife. He lived in Concord until soon after 1700, when he moved to Plainfield, Ct., a new town incorporated in 1699, and his name appears as one of the signers to an agreement of that date, relating to the town organization. Later he was allotted lands there. In 1704 he was a sergeant of the train band there, and in the same year he was named as one of the church committee.

On 17 Dec. 1706, the General Court of Connecticut in answer to a petition; confirmed the title of several of the original, and some of the new settlers, including among the latter Samuel Howe. Mass. Historical Collections, 6 Series, Vol. 3, pp.313-316. In the records of Middlesex Deeds, Vol. 15, p. 564, is a record of a deed dated 1 Nov. 1709, in which "Samuel How Senr sometime of Concord, now of Plainfield, Ct.," conveys land in Concord to Nathaniel Jones of same place. He died in Plainfield in the latter part of 1724. The probate records of Willimantic, Ct., show the probate there on 11 Jan. 1724-5 of the will of Samuel How of Plainfield, carpenter, dated 30 Oct. 1724, and that John How was named as executor. The will mentions his wife Mary, and his sons Samuel and John; it also mentions six daughters, including Mary Farrar, Mary Russell, Sarah White, and the children of Isaac Coyes (Corey) and a deceased daughter Sarah. The same records also show receipts signed by Mary How, widow, Isaac Wheeler for his wife, David Munro for his wife, John Stevens for his wife, John Parkhurst for his wife and Mary Russell and Mary Farrar.

The same records also show the distribution 16 April 1728, of the estate of Mary How, and the mention of her son Samuel, Phebe How guardian of children of her son John, deceased, her daughters Sarah White, Abigail Parkhurst, Deborah Munro, Elizabeth Stevens and Isaac Corey, guardian of children of Sarah Cory, deceased.

FOURTH GENERATION.

15. JOHN[4] HOWE (Zachariah,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Edward[1]), born in New Haven, Ct., 21 Dec. 1667; married HANNAH HEMINWAY, daughter of Samuel and Sarah (Cooper) Heminway of East Haven, Ct. They lived in New Haven, where he died about 1752. The New Haven Probate Records under date of 14 Nov. 1752, contain the record of an Inventory of the estate of John How of New Haven, and that Jacob Hemingway was appointed Executor of the will of John How, late of New Haven. The following were mentioned in the settlement of the estate: Hannah How, widow, sons John and Isaac, and daughters Hannah Robertson (Robinson) Mary Pardee, Elizabeth Penfield, Abigail, Lydia and Bathsheba. The same records under date of March 1753, show that the Executor petitioned for Commissioners to divide the land of the estate, and the commissioners reported the division among the heirs, lands being given to six of the daughters named in the will.

He married second, 13 Oct. 1822, MARTHA BARR. He died 16 March 1852. According to some of his descendants, he with his brother Seth, and another brother, moved from Connecticut, prior to 1794, to Penn., and acquired a large tract of land on the site of the present city of Scranton, and erected a saw mill, grist mill, etc. In June 1810, John and his family removed from Scranton to the State of New York, traveling by means of two ox teams, his wife riding the entire distance on horseback. The trip occupied thirteen days and ended at Byron, Genesee Co. On July 12 he settled in Batavia (now East Elba) where he built the first log house in that vicinity, and began farming on a farm that cost $3.50 per acre. His first crop of wheat, covering one acre, yielded 30 bushels. Of this he took the first grist on horseback to LeRoy, fifteen mile distant, to have it ground.

John was accompanied, or shortly followed, to East Elba by his brother Seth. They were typical early Methodists. Their homes were the stopping places for the traveling preachers of that faith, and the first quarterly meetings were held there. The first class here was organized under the leadership of Marmaduke Pierce, with Joseph Waller, Seth and John Howe and their families as members.

APPENDIX

THE DORCHESTER HOME OF ABRAHAM HOWE

Abraham Howe removed from his Roxbury home about 1650 to Dorchester and settled in that part of the town later known as Hyde Park. By his will in 1676 he gave his farm in Roxbury to his eldest son Abraham and the farm in Dorchester to his sons Isaac and Israel. He gave to Isaac the westerly half of his house and to Israel the easterly half of the house and the shop adjoining. The outbuildings he gave to Isaac and Israel jointly. There is no probate record of the settlement of the estates of either Isaac[2] or Israel[2] nor is there any record of the transfer of the property by either of them. When Isaac[2]'s son Isaac[3] died in 1760 the inventory of his estate mentions three "mansions," one his home in Dorchester, one in Boston and the other in Dedham, the part of Dorchester where the family of Abraham lived having been annexed in 1738 to Dedham. The first was the "Mansion house at home." The second was "a part of the Mansion house, Ware house and land in Boston" which he had inherited from his sister Hannah. The third was the "Mansion house and barn at Dedham" which were appraised exclusive of Thomas Howe's labor on them.

In 1761 the heirs of Isaac[3] joined in separate deeds by which the homestead of their father was given to their brother Samuel, the house in Boston was given to their brother-in-law, Thomas Foster, the husband of their sister Hannah Howe, while the Dedham estate was given to their brother Thomas, he being at the time in possession of it.

The writer has been unable to find any record of the transfer of Israel Howe's interest in the old homestead but from the language of the inventory of Isaac[3]'s estate in 1761 and from the deed to his son Thomas by his brothers and sisters, and subsequent transfers, it would seem that Isaac had in some way acquired sole ownership.

Isaac[3] acquired another home and left his eldest son Thomas in possession of the old homestead.

The last Howe owner of the farm was Calvin Howe, (Calvin,[6] Thomas,[5] Thomas,[4] Isaac,[3] Isaac,[2] Abraham[1]). Calvin purchased of the administrator of his father's estate and sold to Samuel Paul April 24, 1822, thus terminating the Howe ownership.

The sketch of the house was made from a description by Ebenezer Paul, son of Samuel, who was born and lived in the house for over 20 years and the plan of location was made from a survey made in 1850.

DANIEL HOW OF LYNN, MASS.

DANIEL How was of Lynn, Mass., as early as 1630, and was admitted freeman there 14 May 1634. He was representative to the General Court for five terms. At a town meeting held in Lynn in 1637, he was one of a committee appointed to divide the lands. In the list of land owners there in 1638, he is credited with "Upland and Meadow 60 acres." That celebrated Military Company, afterwards known as the "Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company," was organized 1 June 1638, with Robert Keayne of Boston, as Captain, and Daniel How as Lieutenant. Lewis and Newhall (History of Lynn, pp. 124-5,) and Howell (History of Southampton, p. 429) suppose him to have been a brother of Edward How of Lynn. In the year 1640, he and others from Lynn, sought to effect the settlement of a colony on Long Island, (an account of which is given in the History of Lynn.) Capt. Daniel How was one of the Magistrates of Southampton, between the years 1640 and 1646.

It appears that about the year 1648 or 1649, he left Southampton, and became one of the first settlers of East Hampton, L. I. There is no reliable information as to how long he remained in East Hampton. Of his descendants little is known, he is supposed to have had a son Ephraim and a son Edward, and probably other children. It has been said that there was a Daniel How in New Haven in 1646, of which we have no proof.

Savage (Gen. Dictionary Vol. 2, p. 474,) states that a Daniel How came to Boston from London, Eng., in 1651, in the "John and Sarah."

EDWARD HOW OF WATERTOWN, MASS.

Elder Edward How was one of the early settlers of Watertown. We find that he was made freeman May 14, 1634. He was one of 11 Freemen to dispose of all Civic Affaires of the Town, for one whole yeare, 1636, Oct. 10. (See Watertown Records).

On Dec. 10, 1638. He was again chosen one of the 11 Freemen "to order the Civil Affaires of ye Towne for this yeare following." (Selectmen).

On the same date. "Ordered yt the Highway to ye little Plaine be yond the Mill shalbe laid out as Edward How & others have appointed it."

In 1640 and 1641, he was chosen one of the 12 Freemen to order the Town Affaires &c.

In 1642 he was chosen one of the 9 Freemen (Selectmen).

He had 14 parcels of land grantd to him, 223 acres in all.

In the third Inventory of land, he had 7 parcels of land, 68 acres.

He and Matthew Craddock were owners of the first mill in Watertown. Later he had a law suit with Dudley concerning the mill. He married in England, MARGARET ———. He died 24 June 1644. His will mentions no children. His widow Margaret married second, George Bunker of Charlestown, the owner of Bunker Hill, as his second wife. She died in 1660; her will dated 8 (2) 1647, probated 18 Dec. 1660; in it she bequeaths to her sister, Mary Nogood, in Boxford, Essex County, in old England, and her children, John Nogood and Elizabeth Nogood. She also bequeaths to John Stone of Sudbury ,and to Nathaniel Treadway, but mentions no children.

EDWARD HOWE OF VIRGINIA.

EDWARD HOWE, according to family tradition, came from England, with an older brother, who settled in Vermont, and a younger brother, who went west. And according to the same traditions, Edward left home on a business trip, and never returned. He settled near Winchester, Va., but later he appears to have lived in Martinsburg, W. Va. He married MARGARET PENNYBAKER, whose mother's maiden name was Royer.

JOHN HOWE OF VIRGINIA.

In Hotten's List of Emigrants to America, is a list of the names of those living at the "Eastern Shore," 16 Feb. 1623, in which we find the name of "John How." The "Eastern Shore" included what was then known as "Accawmacke," afterwards called Northampton. We also hear of "John Howe gent." appointed by the Gen. Assembly of Virginia, 5 March 1623, as one of the Commissioners to hold the "mounthlie corts" for Accawmacke. (Hennings. Virg. Statutes, Vol. 1, p. 170). His name also appears as one of the Burgesses for Accawmacke in 1631, 1632, and 1633, and again as one of the commissioners for holding the monthly court there in 1632. (Henning's Statutes, Vol. 1, pp. 170, 187, 203).

In Vol. 3, (2nd Ser.) Mass. Hist. Soc. Pros. pp. 4, 5, is a communication containing various extracts taken by Dr. Neill from the records of Northampton Co., Va., in which it is said "occur the names of a number of persons from New England." The records begin with Sept. 1632, and show that "The Monthly Court of Accawmacke, as Northampton, was then first called, met on the 16th of Sept. and composed of Captain William Clairborne" and others named, including "John How, gent." This Capt. Clairborne is the same mentioned in a letter of John Winthrop Jr., dated 30 April 1631, (Mass. Hist. Coll. 5th Ser., Vol. 8, p. 31) as bringing corn to Boston from Virginia in exchange for fish.

The same records also show that in September 1635, the minister asked for a parsonage, and that a vestry was thereupon organized, including "John How." The parsonage built is said to have been "the first of which we have any account in Virginia."

If it is intended by the author of the communication above mentioned, that it shall be inferred that the John Howe named therein was from New England, the inference is probably erroneous. We have found no record of any of his descendants.

Note. Is it not possible that he may be the John How who settled at Sudbury and Marlborough? There seems to be a matter of only three or four years elapse between the time that the name last appears on the Virginia records (1635), and the time when the name first appears on the Sudbury records 1639. (Editor.)

JOHN HOW OF PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

1. JOHN[1] How of Portsmouth, N. H., was born prior to 1730. Who his parents were, we have no knowledge, nor can we find any record concerning him previous to that date. It would seem quite probable that he might be a descendant of Edward Howe of Lynn, through his son Isaac, but we have no records to prove the possibility. From the Church Records at Portsmouth, we find that he had several children, but we do not find the name of his wife.

Children baptized in Portsmouth:

i. ELIZABETH,[2] bapt. 27 Aug. 1749.
ii. ABIGAIL, bapt. 16 June 1751; m. 20 Nov. 1778, John Woods.
3. iii. JOHN, bapt. 14 Oct. 1753.
iv. SARAH, bapt. 23 Oct. 1757.
4. v. THOMAS, bapt. 23 March 1760.

THOMAS HOW OF BARRINGTON, N. H.

2. THOMAS[1] How of Barrington, N. H., was born about 1733; we have not any record of his place or date of birth, but we feel it is quite probable that he was a brother of John How of Portsmouth, above mentioned. We do not learn the name of his wife from any record that we have seen thus far. He was a signer of the N. H. Assn. Test in 1776. He was a member of Capt. John Drew's Co., having joined 12 May 1777, age given as 44. The following are probably the names of some of his children, gathered from different sources.

Children:

5. i. JOHN,[2] b. 28 Jan. 1766.
ii. THOMAS, b. ———; m. 28 Aug. 1791, Hannah Paige of Pittsfield.
iii. CHARITY, b. ———; m. 5 June 1791, William Young.

MOSES HOW.

Moses[1] Howe of Dover, N. H., was probably born about 1728; married 17 Sept. 1776, Mrs. Mary Dix of Waltham, Mass., (probably a second wife). He died 2 Nov. 1776. His widow married 7 Jan. 1778, Jonas Smith of Waltham. His estate was settled in Middlesex Co., Mass. A Dr. Moses Howe (probably the same), settled in Dover, N. H., where he had several children baptized. He was probably a relative of John How of Portsmouth, N. H., and Thomas How of Barrington, and probably a descendant of Edward How of Lynn, Mass., through his son Isaac.

Children:

i. Josiah Farwell,[2] bapt. 28 Oct. 1759.
ii. Sarah, bapt. 13 Dec. 1761.
iii. Relief, bapt. 23 Oct. 1763.
iv. Elijah, bapt. 18 Aug. 1765.
v. Molly, bapt. 29 May 1768.

The U. S. Census of 1790 shows that there were five Howe Families in Portsmouth, N. H., viz.: John How, 1 male over 16, 2 males under 16, and 2 females; George How, 3 males over 16, no males under 16, and 2 females; George How Jr., 2 males over 16, no males under 16, and 3 females; Richard How, 1 male over 16, 1 male under 16, and 1 female; Richard How Jr., 1 male over 16, no males under 16, and 1 female.

Richard How Jr. married Aug. 20, 1788, Elizabeth Jackson of Portsmouth.

The above George How was probably a relative of Moses How of Dover, and Richard How may have been a brother of George. We find no further record of Richard Jr. in Portsmouth. It is probable that they moved from town.

2. George[2] Howe Jr., we suppose to be the son of George[1] How of Portsmouth, N. H. He married 23 April 1786, Betsey Brotton of Portsmouth. They probably moved to some town in Maine.

Children:

i. Betsey,[3] bapt. in Portsmouth, 23 March 1789.

JOSEPH HOW OF BOSTON, MASS.

Joseph How was in Boston as early as 1652, where he married on 16 July 1652, MRS. FRANCES WILLEY, a widow, and daughter of Thomas Marshall, from whose estate he received a legacy. She died previous to Oct. 2, 1673, as on that date, there was a contract of marriage between Joseph How of Boston, cooper, and Mrs. Elizabeth Binney or Bunn, widow of Edward Bunn of Hull; her maiden name was Mason (perhaps a daughter of Ralph Mason). He was admitted a freeman May 6, 1657. His name appears as one of the signers to a petition presented to the General Court 1675-6 in relation to the conduct of war with the Indians. He seems to have had the confidence of his neighbors, for he was frequently called on to act as an appraiser or overseer of wills. His wife died in Boston 9 Sept. 1693; he died there 6 June 1698. His will dated 1 March 1693-4 and proved 14 July 1698. In his will he is mentioned as Joseph How Senr. of Boston, cooper. The will mentions "his late deceased wife" and only the three following children, Joseph, Sarah and Elizabeth. In a codicil to the will, dated 5 May 1698, Sarah is called "Sarah Dewer" and Elizabeth is called "Elizabeth Wilkins." His son Joseph is censured for his bad conduct, and the property is mainly divided between the two daughters.

Children probably born in Boston:

i. JOSEPH, b. 23 June 1653; no further record.
ii. SARAH, b. 28 Feb. 1655-6; m. Sampson Dewer, Cooper of Boston. He was son of Thomas Drewer, and was baptized in the first Church, 6 day 3 mo. 1655.

Children:

1. David, b. 5 Dec. 1674.
2. Sarah, b. 27 Oct. 1676.

JOSEPH HOW OF VIRGINIA.

JOSEPH[1] HOW, who settled in what is now Pulaski Co., Va., was of English birth and parentage. He is said to have made two trips to this country before settling, first coming about the year 1737, returning soon after. His second visit, made shortly after his return to England, resulted in his settlement in this country. Tradition has it that he ran away from home to join his brother who was an officer in the British Army, but finding that his brother was dead, he drifted southward and finally settled in Virginia. On his second trip over, he met with his future wife, Ellen Dunbar, a Scotch lady, whom he married shortly after his arrival in Boston, near which place he resided for a while. During the French and Indian war, or near its termination, he moved into Virginia, and was engaged for awhile in the construction of a line of forts then being built from Fort Du Quesne southward for the protection of the Virginia frontier.

There was preserved for a long time in the family a curious metal tag or ornament taken from the nose of a hostile Indian killed by him, from one of these forts. These ornaments were furnished by the French to the Indians, and worn by them to distinguish them as friendly to the French cause.

Mr. How finally settled on Back Creek, in what was then Augusta, afterwards Montgomery, and is now Pulaski County, Virginia; as nearly as can be ascertained in 1758 or 1760. He first purchased a place owned by John Daye, who afterwards became his son-in-law, but soon moved to land adjoining and built his residence "Sunnyside" where he spent the remainder of his days. At the time of his settlement at "Sunnyside" there were but few white people living in that part of the country, and as late as 1755 only three or four families are reported as living south of New River, until the settlements on the Holstien were reached.

The old homestead is now in the possession of Mrs. Agnes Howe De Jarnette, great granddaughter of its first owner, and wife of Captain Eugene De Jarnette. The old house still retains its main features of construction, but some additions have been made by its present occupants. The door and window sills are of poplar, and so carefully joined together and fastened with wooden pins, and so well preserved, that great difficulty was experienced in making recent alterations for the purpose of putting in windows of modern construction. The woodwork is held together by wooden pins and wrought iron nails in use at the time the house was built, and then sold in that part of the country by number. The place which Joseph How first purchased of John Daye, is now in possession of, and owned by J. Hoge Tyler, a great grandson, late Lieut. Governor of the State.

Nothing is now known of the general appearance of Joseph How, save that he was a man of robust physique, and well suited for a pioneer life on the frontiers. The family traditions are sufficiently definite to warrant the statement that his English home was one of wealth and refinement, after the type of that of the English gentlemen of that priod, and that he left home at an early period, and under circumstances which would be apt to prevent frequent communication with his relatives at home, while the prominence of his relatives on the British side in the Revolution would tend still further to this result. He lived to be quite and old man, and was buried with his wife, in the cemetery on the old homestead.

Nothing is known of the parentage of his wife, Ellen Dunbar, except that she was of Scotch descent. She is said to have been slightly below medium size, with light hair and blue eyes, and to have walked with a limp, which necessitated the use of a cane. Curious traditions linger about the old homestead in connection with its first lady, and it is said that at times in the upper rooms of the old house may still be heard the hum of her spinning wheel, and the strokes of her cane upon the floor as if to admonish her future generations to do nothing to bring discredit upon the name.

2. vi. DANIEL, b. 20 Sept. 1758.

There may have been other children.

2. DANIEL[2] HOWE (Joseph[1]), born in Pulaski Co., Va., 20 Sept. 1758; married 31 Aug. 1790, NANCY HAVEN, who was born 9 July 1771, and died 4 March 1830. At the age of seventeen, he enlisted in the army against the Indians, and was probably with Col. Christian on his expedition to join Gen. Andrew Lewis in his campaign in 1774, and arriving upon the battlefield of Point Pleasant, the day after the battle, of which he gave a description. He afterwards enlisted as a Revolutionary soldier, and served at intervals throughout the war, attaining to the rank of captain. He belonged to Capt. Henry Patton's Company of Col. William Preston's Regiment, but served under various other commanders, and was engaged principally on the frontier of Virginia and North Carolina. After the Revolution he became a Major in the militia. He succeeded to the "Sunnyside" homestead of his father, where he died 2 Jan. 1838. His tombstone in cemetery on the old homestead, bears this inscription, "In youth a soldier of the Revolution, in old age a soldier of the cross." There are not many descendants of Daniel Howe, who bear the family name, but all who do, live in Southwest Virginia. There are, however, a large number of them who bear other names than Howe, who live in Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri and on the Pacific Coast.

In religion the Howes of Virginia, and their descendants, with few exceptions, were Presbyterians, and in politics were Democrats. The greater number of those of military age, saw active service on the Confederate side, during the Civil war. Several of Daniel Howe's descendants were killed at the battle of Cloyd's Farm, fought in the neighborhood of the old homestead; a grandson died a prisoner of war, another was wounded and taken prisoner at Gettysburg, and another remained in the service until Lee's surrender.

SAMUEL HOWE.

Of this Samuel[1] Howe we fail to find anything definite concerning his parentage. The family tradition is that two brothers, Samuel and John, emigrated from London in 1665 (the year of the great plague) to this country. That John settled in Connecticut, and Samuel settled in Massachusetts. One of Samuel's descendants was Samuel who was born in Framingham, Mass., about 1745. The name of Samuel's grandfather is said to have been Thomas; and that he had a brother, and two sisters, Sylvia and Lucy.

But we find no records thus far, to bear out these statements; he may have been born in Framingham, Mass., if so, the birth was not recorded. He seems to have lived in Smithfield, R. I., in later life, where we find the death of his first wife Martha in Smithfield, 24 Nov.. 1787. He married second, 17 Sept. 1789, Sally Bradford of Providence, R. I. He seems to have had but one child. They lived in Smithfield several years, then moved to New York State, and settled in Marcellus, Onondaga Co., where he was living in 1820.

Child:

2. i. Parley Eddy,[2] b. in Smithfield, R. I., 31 Jan. 1769.

2. Parley Eddy[2] Howe (Samuel[1]), born in Smithfield, R. I., 31 Jan. 1769; married in Smithfield, 10 Jan. 1795, Betsey Healy, who was born in Providence, R. I., 9 June 1776. They moved to Marcellus, N. Y., where he died 25 Aug. 1831. She died there 4 July 1850.

Children born in Marcellus:

i. William,[3] b. 3 July 1796; m. 14 March 1819, Phimelia Robertson, and lived North Almond, N. Y., where he d. 13 March 1870.
